

Britain Seeks to Avert New Attacks Upon Ships in East

Foreign Secretary Outlines Position in Address To Commons

London —(4)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden informed commons today that Great Britain is seeking definite action by Japan to guard against recurrence of attacks on British shipping.

He said the Japanese government realizes the recurrence of such incidents in the Far East must impair relations between the two countries.

The note being dispatched today would define the British government's attitude "toward the whole series of incidents, emphasizing the seriousness of the situation thus created and requirements which, in their judgment, flow from it," Eden said.

The foreign secretary added that the note would further draw attention to "aspects of recent grave incidents not covered by the note of the Japanese government."

In particular, they (the British government) wish to be assured action is being taken of such character as will definitely assure no repetition of these incidents which, as the Japanese government themselves realize, must impair relations between the two countries," Eden said.

Reads Japanese Note

In reply to a question by Clement Attlee, the labor party leader, Eden read a note tendering an apology for attacks on British ships and saying immediate steps were being taken to prevent further attacks.

The note said the Japanese would deal suitably with those responsible for recent attacks and pay compensation for damage.

"Great Britain's note is not yet in Japanese hands, but probably will be published tomorrow," Eden said.

Before the foreign minister spoke, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was asked by Commander L. R. Fletcher, labor member of commons, whether the advisability of reinforcing the China squadron has been under consideration.

Fletcher may rest assured of protection of British interests in the Far East, a subject of constant preoccupation on the part of the British government," Chamberlain replied.

The British cabinet, in a general review of the danger to empire interests arising from the Japanese-Chinese conflict, has considered sending more warships to the Orient. The cabinet specifically studied the question of whether Hong Kong, crown colony on the South China coast, was threatened.

Green Bay Student Is Officer of Youth Group

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau — Madison — Miles McMullin of Green Bay, a member of the University of Wisconsin Progressive club, has been elected youth president of the Wisconsin Youth Congress for the eighth congressional district, it has been announced.

McMullin is a prominent campus liberal, is a student in the law school, and is slated to be the next president of the campus Progressive group.

The Youth Congress is a federation of young people's groups which held an annual meeting here recently.

Valley Freight Agents In Meeting Here Today

Members of the Freight Agents association of the Fox River Valley held a luncheon and meeting today at Conway hotel.

The association was formed recently and will hold meetings each month at various cities in the valley. Officers will be elected at the January meeting. Discussion of matters relating to their work was carried on at today's gathering at which 14 men were present.

Fair Competition Codes to Be Submitted to Governor

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau — Madison — Codes of fair competition for barbers and highway contractors have been drafted and will be submitted to Governor La Follette late this week or early next week for approval, and similar sets of standards and regulations for the cleaning and drying and shoe repairing industry are nearing completion, Senator E. M. Rowlands, chairman of the state trade practices commission said here yesterday.

Rowlands indicated that his department's policy will be to discourage code formulation unless conditions in an industry are really serious.

"We are not encouraging codes. We don't want any industry to have a code until we see that conditions are very bad," he explained.

Hearings are set only upon the application of a considerable number of those engaged in any particular industry, and only when it is apparent that more than 50 per cent of the industry is favorable, does the commission begin the drafting of regulations.

Rowlands said that representatives of the beauty parlor and lumber industries may be expected to be summoned to a hearing at the capital on standards for their industries sometime in January.

Lumber dealers have asked for district codes for separate areas, he said.

Most persistent advocates of the code act were the barbers and the dry cleaners, who appeared before legislative committees during the two sessions this year to urge passage of a code bill to replace the expired 1935 act.

Theater to Collect Canned Goods for Needy Yule Baskets

Canned food will be the price of admission for children at a special morning program Wednesday, Dec. 22, at the Appleton theater. The canned goods will be turned over to the Salvation Army and used in Christmas baskets which will be distributed to the needy. Employees of the theater will donate their services for the program. Arrangements for the show are being completed and will be announced at an early date.

Funds for filling Christmas baskets for the poor are being collected by the Salvation Army through the kettles set up on College avenue and collection boxes in various business places.

German Club Gives Yule Play, "Stille Nacht," at School

400 Persons Attend High School Language Group Production

About 400 high school students and townspeople attended the showing of "Stille Nacht," annual Christmas play produced by the German club, last night in the high school auditorium.

The play was based on the story of the birth of Christ and the coming of the three wise men and was directed by Miss Sophia Haase and Miss Irene Bosserman, German instructors.

Members of the cast were Lois Boon, Dexter Wolfe, Romuald Groh, Robert Schroeder, Douglas White, Charles Wright, John Killoran, Robert Bohn, James Donahue and Eunice Kaufman.

Proceeding the play, German music was furnished by Edwera Abel, Cecelia Behrendt, Gladys Frogner, Dorothy Heilig, Dorothy Herrman, Marian Lutz, Rith Mewaldt, Edna Murdoch, Jean Nuoffer, Jeanne White, Margaret Bauml, Peggy Boyer, Margaret Brewer, Joan Gerlach, Peggy Grove, Esther Halliner, Marguerite Hughes, Mary Rose Konrad, Lorraine Liesch, Shirley Russler, Ralph Colvin, John Huebner, Charles Mader, Harwood Orblison, Junior Sager, Arthur Wondt, Albert Wickesberg and Arlene Greb.

On the production staff were Mildred Voss, Millicent Powers, Irene Smith, Anne Holtz, Robert Thiel, Charles Greunke, Mary Rose Konrad, Dorothy Heiling, Virginia Ginnow, Catherine Roemer, Shirley Russler, Jeanne White, Harwood Orblison and Gustave Zuehlke.

Approve State Plans For Duck Creek Span

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau — Washington — The war department has approved the Wisconsin State Highway Commission's application for approval of plans of a fixed bridge to be constructed at the village of Duck Creek.

The new bridge across Duck Creek would be constructed under authority of the state law, about 2.2 miles above the mouth of the creek, to replace the present bascule bridge.

According to plans for the proposed bridge, the horizontal clearance afforded would total 46.83 feet. The existing bridge affords a horizontal clearance of 50 feet.

Officials of the War department noted that this reduction will not unreasonably obstruct the passage of watercraft, since navigation on Duck Creek is limited to small pleasure craft and fishing vessels.

The existing bridge has not been opened since its construction in 1917, according to the War department.

Liberty Bell Students Planning Yule Program

Children of the Liberty Bell school, town of Bovina, are preparing a Christmas program and making decorations for the school. A movie reel on the story, "Cinderella," has been made by the language students of the first and second grades. The seventh and eighth grades are studying the "Christmas Carol."

Students perfect in attendance during November were: Cleotown Burton, Melvin Koepke, John Oberstad, Jone Guillaume, Doris Grulke, Mildred Guillaume, Howard Burton, Earl Keesler, Duane Strong, Donald Burton and Grace Thornton.

National Camping Group Asks Gardner Dam Survey

The American Camping association has requested from Walter Dixon, scout executive, an outline of facts about Gardner Dam Boy Scout camp, relating particularly to the personnel.

The association is conducting a research into the leadership of organized camps throughout the United States and Canada. Charles E. Hendry, coordinator of studies and research for the camping association, suggests in an accompanying bulletin that "a committee of two or three persons who best understand the staff personnel assist the camp director in filling out this entire schedule."

Drive With Car Lights Turned Down in City

Chief of Police George T. Prim today reminded motorists of the state law which states that a motorist should drive in a city with his car lights turned down. A number of drivers have been driving lights on and this practice creates a traffic hazard, he said. Spot lights also must not be used for driving in the city, he said.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S PROTEST TO JAPAN

Written on a single sheet of White House paper, the memorandum was sent to Secretary of State Hull by President Roosevelt, protesting the bombing of four American vessels.

Paris Police Hunt 2 Missing Women

Fear They May Have Been Slain by Murder-for-Profit Ring

Paris —(4)—Two women who had answered help wanted advertisements inserted in newspapers by Eugene Weidmann, confessed executioner for a murder-for-profit ring, were reported missing today.

Investigating police said they feared the two women may have met the same fate as Mme. Janine Keller, sixth of Weidmann's known victims, whose body was found in a Fontainebleau forest grave yesterday. His confession that he had killed Jean DeKoven, young Brooklyn, N. Y., dancer, started the prolonged investigation.

Detectives found want ad clippings in Weidmann's suburban St. Cloud Villa and started a search for persons they said had answered his offers of employment. The investigators said they found all but two women, who were reported to have disappeared. Their names and nationalities were not disclosed.

Police also said they had found papers which led them to list Weidmann as a possible suspect in the slaying of Thomas Brown, 29, of Montreal in Canada in 1929.

An assistant of investigating Magistrate Georges Berry said the magistrate regarded the discovery of such importance that he decided to send a commission to Canada to make inquiries.

Weidmann, however, denied participation in any crimes outside French territory.

City Poor Relief Costs for Month Increase $1,303

Care for 138 Cases in November Amounted To $4,304.90

City poor relief costs for November were $4,304.90, an increase of $1,303.87 over the previous month, according to a report compiled by the accounting department for F. A. W. Hammond, city relief officer. The October cost was $3,001.03.

Thirty-eight new cases were added to the relief roll for the month, bringing the total for November to 138. County charges, for which the city is reimbursed, cost $1,019.78. Payments to other counties for local cases amounted to $244.89, bringing the total cost to the city to $4,549.79.

A decrease of $31.9 was shown in the administration costs for the month which was $760.66. Fuel costs for the relief headquarters were $96.05. Provisions for November cost $157.57, an increase of $394.17 over the preceding month. Shelter costs totaled $609.58, an increase of $261.47. An increase of $358.52 was noted in fuel costs which totaled $648.27. A total of $18.01 was paid for utilities service. Direct relief paid in cash amounted to $77.50 and all other direct relief $3.27. Cost of clothing was $61.39, an increase of $10.09 over the previous month.

Medical care costs included: drugs $97.22, physicians $49.60, general care $32.50, hospitalization $161.48, nursing $65 and burials $50. Hospitalization costs showed an increase of $32.70, dental care an increase of $26.50 and physicians an increase of $23.35.

Fruit, Vegetable Crops are Above Average in 1937

Housewives should find no trouble in getting the things they need for their holiday dinner. The current year has been a good one for fruit and vegetable crops, and supplies are more abundant than in several years, according to the crop reporting service in a bulletin to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

There are more and bigger crops in Wisconsin than the apple crop was about twice that of last year and the nation's crop is nearly a third larger than average. Wisconsin also contributes large quantities of cranberries each year for holiday dinners. This year the state's crop was exceptionally large as it was for the nation as a whole. In addition, the quality has been splendid.

While the state may not furnish all the vegetables for the Christmas dinner, many housewives will use some of peas, corn, beans, and beans and other things which came from Wisconsin canneries. Canning crops were large in the state this year, and there is a good supply of those vegetables.

Due to the reported increase in the production of fruits and vegetables in other states these products also can be obtained at most stores and served to round out a well-planned Christmas dinner using mostly Wisconsin agricultural products.

Clark Elected Chairman Of State Soil Group

Madison —(4)—Noble Clark, assistant director of the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment station has been elected chairman of the state soil conservation committee which will assist farmers in setting up district organizations to control soil erosion.

The committee was created under a law passed by the last legislature which permit the organizing of a control district on petition of 25 or more farmers living within the proposed district boundaries.

The committee received its first petition from farmers in the Kickapoo river valley and will hold public hearings on this application, sometime in January.

District organizations are subject to local control and when legally set up may issue mandatory regulations to combat erosion.

Members of the state committee include George Nygaard, Chas. E. Warren, W. Clark, associate director of the state agricultural extension service and Paul Weiss, Barnum.

Weiss is secretary of the committee and Herbert E. Erdman, of the university's department of agricultural economics has been employed as assistant secretary.

DISMISS APPLICATION

Madison —(4)—The public service commission dismissed today an application by the Yellow Transfer company, Milwaukee requesting it to fix freight rates on heavy machinery for contract motor carriers. The commission said the application failed to show that fixing such rates would improve transportation facilities.

Heavy Increase in Claims From Job Insurance Funds

Payments Expected to Cut Down Relief Rolls in Wisconsin

Madison —(4)—A heavy increase in claims for unemployment compensation benefits by persons recently laid off was reported today by the state industrial commission's compensation division.

Paul Rausenbush, director of the division anticipated that payment of claims from the reserve fund built up by employers will tend to hold down relief rolls.

A study made by Racine county showed that many unemployed have been kept off the relief lists through the payment of job insurance benefits.

Similar studies have been made in other counties but do not show the exact proportion of the unemployed eligible for compensation, who otherwise would apply for relief.

Rausenbush said the central and local offices of the compensation division are just beginning to feel the full effects of industrial piques, December applications for claims, he said, show a large increase.

Since the low period of last July the amount of claims paid has risen steadily each month with the exception of October. The monthly figures: July, $115,858; August, $129,675.11; September, $227,518.96; October, $229,756.29; November, $229,233.32.

The total paid out since the reserve fund became subject to withdrawals 18 months ago is $1,887,000. The fund has been built up through contributions by employers, based on a percentage of their pay rolls.

Pedestrian Is Killed When Struck by Truck

Medford, Wis. —(4)—John Barton, 40, was instantly killed when hit by a truck as he walked along Highway 13, seven miles north of here, at midnight Tuesday. The truck was driven by Art Guzikinski, Ogema, who was accompanied by the owner, Kermit Lee, also of Ogema. Barton was a bachelor and lived alone on a tract of wild land in the town of Chelsea. Coroner T. C. Hartwig said an inquest would be held.

State Taxes for Forestry Work to Double Next Year

Outagamie County Share Of Levy Totals $19,-821, Report Shows

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison — Real estate property owners of Wisconsin will pay a state property tax for forestry purposes in 1938 which totals $869,933 compared with a 1937 levy for the same purpose of $426,385, official reports showed today.

The tax increase will be noted by taxpayers in the tax bills which will be paid early in 1938, and is due to doubling the tax rate and a rise in the full value of property in the state.

The 1937 legislature increased the state forestry tax from ten to 20 cents per $1,000 assessed value and at the same time doubled the appropriation for forestry administration. In the meantime the valuation of all taxable property in the state has increased from $4,263,845,000 in 1936 to $4,349,915,000 in 1937.

Outagamie county's share of the state forestry tax for 1938 is $19,-821.16.

Proceeds of the levy are used by the state conservation department for forest protection, suppression of fires, maintenance of the state forests and forest nurseries, county forestry and cooperative forestry, beaver control, and miscellaneous conservation purposes.

Youths May Register For Enrolment in CCC

Registrations are being taken at the central certification bureau in the old post office for enrolment in CCC camps. A quota of 55 has been asked for Outagamie county and youths selected will leave early in January.

Youths who registered before the last enrolment was taken and could not enter because the quota had been filled should notify the bureau as soon as possible if they wish to be considered for the next enrolment.

Women of Bear Creek Parish Give Card Party

Bear Creek—A card party was given Sunday evening by the women of St. Mary's parish at the Forester rooms. Winners of high scores were: bridge, Mrs. John Mul-laney and Charles F. Kiekhoefer; schafkopf, Mrs. P. H. Rohan and Charles Jepson; schuco, Miss Anita Flanagan and Robert Robman. Banns of marriage were announced Sunday by the Rev. J. C. De Vries at St. Mary's church for Miss Alice Lorge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Lorge and Joseph Probst of this village.

Lawrence Student Ban on Japanese Silk Could Cause Some Difficulties

BY DON ANDERSON

A Peace group at Lawrence college has gone on record favoring a boycott of Japanese silk as a protest against the manner in which the sons of Nippon are waging their rather nasty war in China.

Backed by the Lawrencean, college weekly, the Peace group is headed by Margaret Seip, senior, and Kappa Alpha Theta, of Milwaukee.

According to the paper, Miss Seip, in asking campus support, "requested that students who believe in the action help by refusing to date those of the opposite sex who refuse to give up silk-hosiery."

Scene I: Lawrence college fraternity house after the evening meal. Several of the boys are sitting languidly around the front room, one dialing the radio, another reading the sport pages, a third trying to piece together a broken shoe lace, etc.

George: "Well, Bill, I suppose you'll be taken Marge to our party this weekend as usual. You two are getting pretty thick, aren't you?"

Bill: (Looking a bit tragic but quite firm) "Nope."

George: "Ah, come on, don't give us that stuff. Why you haven't looked at anybody else since you met her at the homecoming dance. Everybody knows you're nuts about the girl."

Bill: "Nope, I'm not taking her to our party, I tell you."

Roy: (Stops spinning radio dial and swings around towards Bill) "You don't mean that after falling for her as badly as you did that somebody else has already made you forget her, kid. It don't make sense."

Steve: (Sits up with red face after vainly striving to inject new life in tired shoe lace) "Break down, kid, and admit it's Marge you're after."

Bill: (With difficulty) "Nope, fellows, I'm not taking her. She wears silk stockings."

George, Roy, Steve and others jump to their feet with stunned expressions. Out in the kitchen, the cook, who has overheard, dramatically drops a stove lid.

All but Bill: "Silk stockings! How awful!"

Roy: "Why the little vixen, (High indignation in his voice) When did this happen?"

Bill: "I . . . Oh, gee Roy, the whole campus is buzzing about it. She wore them to her 8 o'clock this morning. Sylvia Ronaldson swears they were silk and not rayon and that Marge just put her head up in the air and wouldn't speak when Sylvia asked her about it."

Fellows gathered around Bill and try to console him. Remarks like "Too bad, she was such a nice girl" and "Tough, kid, but that's all you can do" are heard. Scene ends.

SHE WEARS SILK HOSE, LOSES A DATE

The above picture foretells what will happen at Lawrence college when and if the students take their ban on silk stockings seriously.

John Donovan of Neenah, a junior and Phil Delt, has called at Russell Sage hall to take Miss June Selvy for a stroll in the winter wonderland. Miss Selvy of Green Bay is an attractive sophomore and a Theta pledge, but horrors, underneath her ankle-socks is a pair of genuine silk hose and John, loyal to the boycott on Japanese goods, has noticed them.

"Sorry, kid," he says as he leans against the threshold and regards her disapprovingly. "but no more dates with me." Then he walks coldly out the door. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Scene II: Lawrence college girl's dormitory. It is early in the evening and a group of the coeds have closed their books and are clustered in one room. They are laughing and joking. Suddenly the door opens and Roberta comes in. Without greeting anyone, she throws off her coat and hat and sits down. It's obvious that she's mad.

Gertrude: "Why, Roberta, I thought you had a date for the first show with Phil tonight. What's the matter? Couldn't he come?"

Roberta: "Sure he could. In fact, he's already called for me, but I sent him home."

All but Roberta: "Sent him home! Why, what do you mean?"

Roberta: "He had a pair of silk socks on."

Girls sit in stunned silence. Roberta chokes back a sob.

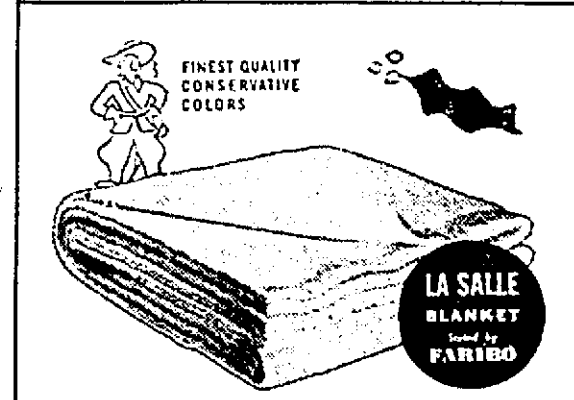

Gertrude: "But Phil was so enthusiastic about the whole thing. Are you sure he had them on? Perhaps somebody just told you and there was no truth in it."

Roberta: (With a tear in her voice) "No . . . There's no mistake . . . he took off his overcoat to come in for a little while . . . When he pulled up his trouser leg to unfasten them, I noticed his sock . . . It was silk."

Coeds gather around Roberta, trying to console her. Such outbursts as "Oh, he's not the only man on the campus" and "Well, I never did think he could be trusted" punctuate the feminine murmur. Scene ends.

Full Dress Is Expensive But O.K. After It's All on

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

Washington—The full dress suit which is compulsory at the grand dinners in Washington, is unquestionably the most expensive male costume outside the military and diplomatic uniforms. It costs as much as $200, although it is possible to buy ready-mades for $50, but the point is that unless a man is an actor, a cabinet member or a night club bouncer, to whom the full dress suit is a professional uniform, like the farmer's overalls or the horseholder's leather apron, he wears it too seldom to get his money's worth.

It is not uncommon for a man to buy a dress suit for one special event and never have occasion to wear it again, and the bureau of standards has ascertained that the average number of wearings is just a fraction over three at an average cost of $35 per wearing.

The rest of the three dress suits hang in closets, and between events men outgrow them and may the incidental equipments, such as the white tie with the snapper in the back, the pearl thing for the middle of the shirtfront and the cuff links, which must be platinum, white gold or aluminum. Then all of a sudden there comes a heavy date at which the subject feels that he must be present lest it be thought that he cannot afford a dress suit, and there is great confusion marked by cries of "Where is that pearl thing for the middle of my shirtfront?" and "Look how these pants have shrunken!"

If there is time the pants can be let out from behind, where the tailors usually leave some overlap for expansion, but if the subject waits until the last minute to inspect his equipment he chokes himself into the pants until he sits down at the table, where he can let go a couple of top buttons and cover up with his napkin.

Inspection Generally Delayed Until Very Late

Most men, however, usually put off inspection until the last minute, and always at the hotels in Washington on gridiron nights the bellhops are run ragged chasing around the stores buying those pearl things and white vest harness, patent leather slippers and all. Men say they do not like to dress up in this costume, and, in fact, they don't, because the fear of losing or forgetting something essential until after the stores are closed makes for nervous indigestion and destroys all the pleasure. But after they are dressed up they like it pretty well, as may be seen in the way they swish their tails and give themselves the how-do-you-do in the mirrors. They all hope they look like Fred Astaire, even little potty guys and big jowly guys.

However, nobody really looks like Astaire, because looking like Fred Astaire is a business with him. If anybody could do it there would be no money in being Mr. Astaire.

The coat is an uneasy garment because it doesn't have any side pockets. A man goes to put his hand in his pocket for something and asks himself, "Hey, where is my side pocket?" Then he remembers, "Oh, yes, I am in full dress—looking like Fred Astaire." (Looks at self in mirror.)

White Vest Is Phony With Phony Buttons

The coat of the suit doesn't meet in front, being purposely scant so as to display the white vest, which is a phony and phony buttons on it and really just a harness which goes over the head and holds together with a strap in the back. The breast of the coat is padded to make it puff out with manliness, and the effect is rather good except that so many tailors make the collar wrong. The collar slips down, disclosing the metal snapper in the back of the necktie and exposing the fact that the tie is stuffed, not tied. Most of them are stuffed, not tied, but it is embarrassing, nevertheless, to feel that the snapper is showing, so in any dress suit gathering their shoulders to get the collar up or scrunching down and carrying themselves stoop-shouldered for the same effect.

The social power of the dress suit is a strong mystery. It is only a suit of clothes deliberately designed to be of no practical use, and the accoutrements that go with it are rank foolishness and vanity. Yet at a dress suit occasions the man who has one is socially acceptable and the man without one is unacceptable, even though everyone knows that in personal qualities,

Country's Supply Of Salt Adequate, Rotary Club Told

Frank G. Wheeler Speaks
On Industry at Noon
Meeting

The size of salt deposits in the United States is an assurance that there is no danger of depletion in that commodity, Frank G. Wheeler of Appleton, an engineer formerly connected with the salt industry, told members of the Appleton Rotary club yesterday noon at Hotel Northern.

Wheeler described a salt bed in eastern Michigan owned by a company for which he worked.

"Our company owned 110 acres of that land. There was a layer of limestone the first 800 feet then 35 feet of salt, then 300 more feet of limestone and then a big salt bed 120 feet thick. Our company decided to control the salt market and asked us if we could give them 700 tons of salt a day from the bed 1200 feet down. We told them that we could and that at that rate, the deposit which we owned would last 250 years. That total bed covers 100 square miles.

Mine salt, taken out of the ground in large chunks, is not used on the table, Wheeler explained, but mostly in industrial processes. Salt is important chemically because it is practically the only soluble raw material.

Its most important industrial uses are in the dyeing, soda ash, and chlorine industries. Wheeler described methods in preparing salt for market and displayed samples.

Take Sealed Bids on Mattresses for Jail

Sealed bids are being received until 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the county clerk's office at the court house on 46 cotton felt mattresses and 18 leather covers for the county jail. Bids will be opened by the building and grounds committee at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. The mattresses will be used by transients given lodging at the jail. At present they must use the concrete floor when a large number is accommodated.

29 Cases of Contagion Are Reported in County

Twenty-nine cases of contagion were found in Outagamie county during the week ended Dec. 4, according to a report of the state board of health received by Miss Marie Klein, county nurse. Appleton reported six cases of chicken pox, one of diphtheria, one of measles and seven of scarlet fever. One diphtheria case was reported in Hortonville. One case of scarlet fever and one of tuberculosis were reported in Kaukauna. One scarlet fever case was found in Kimberly and one in the town of Vandenberg. Shiocton reported six cases of chicken pox and the town of Oneida three cases of influenza.

Slide Rule Class Will End Semester Tonight

The class in slide rule at the Appleton Vocational school will finish its course tonight. R. J. Appert, instructor, will award certificates to those who have attended regularly since the class opened.

Carl Bertram, director of the industrial division, said yesterday that if enough registrations were received, the class will be continued for another 10 weeks starting in January.

Vacation at Vocational School Starts Saturday

Classes at the Appleton Vocational school will close Friday night for the Christmas vacation and will be resumed the first week in January.

Herb Heilig, director, said yesterday that registrations are now being taken for new classes. Most of the courses, however, that will be given next semester are continuations of those offered this fall.

Persons may enroll as late as the first week in January and still attend next semester's classes.

Card Party Is Given At Hortonville Home

Hortonville—Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Collar entertained their card club at their home Tuesday evening. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Schwarz and Mr. and Mrs. I.

E. Hackett, Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Buchman, and Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Freiburger, Hortonville. Prizes at schafkopf were won by Mrs. E. A. Buchman, high, and Mrs. Schwarz, low. Mr. Schwarz received high for men and Mr. Hackett low. The club will meet on Sunday Dec. 26, at the L. R. Schwarz home, Appleton, for a Christmas party.

Dr. Fredrick C. Grant of Evansville, Ill., dean of the Western Theological seminary, and Mrs. Grant visited the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Grant, on Sunday.

THE PRESIDENT TO JAPAN

The rather spectacular procedure of the President after the sinking of the Panay was fully justified under the circumstances.

Mr. Roosevelt did not take personal charge of the matter because of insufficiency upon the part of his Secretary of State. Mr. Hull, in fact, is a particularly able and discreet diplomat. But the President pursued a method likely to impress the Japs, highly heated as they are with their own desperate affairs that they must turn aside from the battle sufficiently to prevent unprovoked attacks upon American business that is rightfully where it is. Dropping the American State Department out of the picture, eliminating the Japanese Ambassador at Washington, even going over the head of the Japanese government and addressing directly the Emperor of Japan who is its supreme warlord, was another example of straight and forceful dealing, straight because aimed directly at the source of power, and forceful because the message was couched in forthright and unmistakable language.

Since the world, or some parts of it, have become a bit rational about war it has realized that incidents such as the Panay may occur during the clash of great and extended armies just as naturally as two trucks may collide. The immediate charge that Japs have ordered everything destroyed that passes down the river is unsupported, and probably will never find support in any sources of authority.

What is done by accident and what is done by intention are as different as night and day, as black and white.

Unless Japan has gone clear berserk it regrets the clash of interests nearly as much as America. For the last thing it wants in this world today is to get a view of the American fleet steaming into Asiatic waters.

Nevertheless, Mr. Roosevelt properly wrote his message in the indignant spirit of one who has seen the list of Japanese carelessness in attack grow longer every day although to date Britain has been the sharpest sufferer.

A YARDSTICK THAT MEASURES TRULY

The North American Newspaper Alliance, the capable news collection agency that dug out all the tricky facts in Kluxer Black's Klan history, has now opened up another lead that appears headed to the core of things.

Its discoveries relate to the political preference and corruption to be found in activities of the Tennessee Valley Authority and similar governmental agencies.

It may be recalled after the President went out to dedicate the Bonneville dam and incidentally escape Kluxer Black's homecoming, that instead of the irrigation part of the dam venture doing the country in general any good it was found that the usual crop of smart and alert young men had bought up almost all of the territory to be irrigated at a few cents an acre and were waiting for the first splash of the water to splurge up real estate prices a few thousand per cent.

It now appears that a gentleman whose pose, correct or otherwise, as "Labor's friend" brought him to the senate as a member of that exclusive group sent by the state of Tennessee, has not only been buying up "mineral rights" to property expected to be flooded and therefore condemned by the government and paid for out of the treasury but that under his princely hand the price has skyrocketed past the moon.

The gentleman involved is Senator Berry. The area involved is only 452 acres. The title involved has nothing to do with the surface but merely the mineral rights. The money involved is $1,633,000 demanded by the senator and his two associates for the release of rights that cost $1 a lease, for the gentlemen really didn't buy anything, they just leased it.

Perhaps mineral rights down in Tennessee may be worth millions but it took a magician politician by the name of Berry to find it out. The hill billies who have been living on and making moon along the Tennessee are not the ones to share this great and new wealth produced by the New Deal in one of its early spasms. The hill billies will still billy the hills and stand at attention when Senator Berry, the friend of labor, passes on his way.

It is a curious method of wealth production for our nation to pay over a million for the privilege of flooding land never thought to be worth more than a few cents an acre and yet not take the wealth out of the land but take it from the backs of the American people to hand over to those extremely educated and ingenious gentlemen who knew there was no money in buying land which was near worthless and therefore bought the pipe-dream which is very salable,—that is if your political buddies have hold of the treasury and are generously inclined.

CHICAGO'S CRUSADE AGAINST SYPHILIS

Chicago deserves an award of merit for its methodical effort to crush out syphilis.

What appears like a most praiseworthy combination between the city's Health Department and its newspapers is responsible for the campaign.

First, of course, it was necessary to educate a great many people to the fact that syphilis is a viper, the scourge of mankind, stealthy and insidious, tracking down the innocent more than anyone else, the cause of untold physical and mental misery, and, worse perhaps of all, the only inheritable disease.

After the ground was broken by this campaign of accurate information the Health Department moved in and went to work. Scores of competent physicians contributed their services gratis else the increased burden could not have been carried.

At the present time Chicago school children are under examination. At all times a high regard for the rights of the individual and his sensitiveness has been maintained. In no case was a school child submitted to test without the parents' written consent. In every case where infection was found to exist physicians waited upon parents and discussed the problem and its solution across the table with them.

While the tests are nowhere near complete those to date have shown the presence of the dread disease in about 2½ per cent of the children. Presumably it will be eradicated in all discovered cases since curing is relatively simple though treatment may cover a prolonged period.

Assuredly all these youngsters are innocent victims. Certainly everyone of them would ultimately have become a cripple of some sort, and as likely mental as otherwise, had not the discovery of the germ in his blood been made.

The Chicago experience, of course, is but one skirmish along the extended battle line in this country against this mournful ailment. It was first necessary everywhere to convince the people that speaking of such a malady in whispers was only conducive to its spread and that it could never be eradicated until every person, whatever his work or education, came to know it as humanity's arch enemy.

THE MEN ON GUARD

Olin Sanders, captain at a South Carolina prison, has earned the Distinguished Service Medal just as effectively as it was earned at Chateau Thierry and in the Argonne.

He coolly sacrificed his life to prevent six desperados from polluting the general atmosphere with their presence.

Between the surrender of his life and the easy compliance with the demands of the hoodlums Captain Sanders never hesitated. When their ruse failed, when manhood stood between them and the liberty their misconduct had lost them, like enraged jungle beasts they slew him.

Unless the government is strong enough to mete out to them suitable punishment, unless its system of laws is intelligent enough to appreciate a man like Sanders by erasing men like his attackers, then indeed would it appear that the ruse, the attack, even the fiendish slaying, are in part invited by the public itself.

Opinions Of Others

LAWYERS' REPLY TO PRESIDENT

President Roosevelt, although a lawyer himself, has on several occasions in connection with his thwarted attempt to pack the supreme court spoken disparagingly of the legal profession. Obviously this is because the most eminent lawyers throughout the country have urged defeat of his project that would destroy the independence of the judiciary.

Notably in connection with his Constitution Day address the executive indicted the whole profession by implication. The original broad concept of the Constitution, he said, was "laymen's instrument of government" as opposed to the idea of those who would "shrive" it "into a lawyer's contract." In general principles he declared it "different from the 'whereases' and 'the parties of the first part' and the fine print which lawyers put into leases and insurance policies and instalment mortgages."

The public itself has frequently condemned the practices of some individual lawyers, but it has never failed to recognize the importance of the profession in general in advancing and upholding the cause of justice. Particularly has the value of the service of the lawyers in the recent battle to uphold the court been acknowledged.

The most pointed reply to the president's aspersions came fittingly from Frederick H. Stinchfield, head of the American Bar association, on the eve of the latter's national convention in Kansas City this week. "If lawyers were seeking selfish ends," said Mr. Stinchfield, "they could not but wish a continuance of the radical tendencies of the present administration in order that there might be a continuance of this legislation which results in so much employment for lawyers. . . . You will find that the return to lawyers has been beyond all measure over what any other laws ever made possible. Yet all that the lawyers do indicates their opposition to the continuance of those taxes and those New Deal enactments."

There is no "fine print" about that. Laymen have no difficulty in understanding it.—Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

AT LONG LAST

Jonah:
May we come in, again? Thank you.

Much water has gone over the bridge since our last contribution. Since that time, we've had a raise, a vacation, a third-degree sunburn which left us blind for three dark days, a change of jobs (again!)—this last due to the market crashing), have formed new friendships, etc., etc.

There was an agonizing period during the summer when we were torn between the desire to change the color of our hair, and the railing of friends to remain the same person we gave the impression of being. Finally, we made our decision. Wrote home the news that we were contemplating, seriously, undergoing what we nervously thought would be a change for the better. Alas and alack! — letters came flying back, threatening complete disinheritance from the family circle, etc., etc. We're still the same, 'tis sad to relate.

Then there was the hectic period when every new person we met insisted on tagging a nickname on us. First, the then new boss pinned "Sour Puss" on us, changed it to "Bingey" (not for the reason the name implied, we hoped) and then finally to "Happy." Then some people took a Mexican trip and came back full of "Chiquitas" and so forth. All these bringing back with the rush of years the dim day our first box of Christmas candy came from whom we liked to think of as an admiring young man with a note pinned: "To Mudhen." Tsk. Tsk. Silly reflections, perhaps, but they are warming.

Also, a contribution ago we crowded about being in distant Bagdad come the spring, tra la la la la. Once more, dreams went smashing to the pavements. The young lady who was so enthusiastic about the idea ran smack into the Personal Problem from which she fled some six months ago and now one can smell the orange blossoms (yea, even in the early winter) and hear the pealing of bells.

The nicest proposal of the summer came from a quiet Los Angeles news reporter — "if you ONLY liked newspapers!" — we didn't insist. But he was very nice—but then, aren't all reporters?

Just as any sentimental housewife, we've stored away the memories of the past summer here and there in the closets of our brain . . . boxes and packages, all shapes and sizes.

Here's one box crammed full and fairly shouting with aliveness . . . memories of Sunday morning serenaders blasting us out of an earned sleep . . . sing-songing peddlers . . . flower vendors in the court-yards . . . the organ-grinder's wizened monkey, on the home block . . .

Another package . . . small . . . wrapped tightly in mist . . . tied with patches of rain-washed sky . . . moments of a friendship which blossomed swiftly and then broke into a thousand pieces. Each piece has been painfully gathered, pieced haphazardly together and stored away. Perhaps some distant day we will feverishly take out the misunderstanding now in the box and replace it for that which should have been.

—BLON DE

My principal regret is that we get this far down the page and stop. More of this tomorrow. Blon De doesn't write often, but when she does — obby.

A Verse for Today
By Anne Campbell

"LOOK PLEASANT, PLEASE"

When long ago in that small town
I went to the photographer.
He used to sit me gravely down,
And warn me that I must not stir.
There was an iron contraption set
Behind my head, and ill at ease,
Lest it should tear my best hair net,
I hear him say: "Look pleasant, please!"

My head seemed fastened in a vice!
Upon my face there was a smirk!
I hoped that I would look real nice,
And hid my hands, made rough by work.
My gown—the best black silk—was sleek
And smooth across my trembling knees.
I jumped to hear the young man speak
And scarcely could "Look pleasant, please!"

Beneath a wide black cloth he bent,
(It hid the camera and him)
And though he was of good intent,
My young heart jumped, my eyes grew dim!
I was so scared that I could cry!
... Here are some pictures! He took these!
How very queer this should be!
Who could not quite "Look pleasant, please!"

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

CAVITIES IN CHILD'S TEETH

A well-nourished child should have no cavities at all. The popular notion of "good nutrition" is pure food and plenty of it, but actually children of the well-to-do who presumably get all the pure food they want are as likely to suffer from malnutrition or nutritional deficiencies as are children of the poor who presumably do not get all the food they need.

In Oslo, Norway, Dr. A. Collett studies the condition of the teeth in two institutions for children. One was a nursery day school attended by children who received most of their meals at home and whose diets were not supervised. The other was a boarding school where, besides a diet that provided plenty of fruit and vegetables and more than a pint of milk daily, the children received—wow, kids, you ought to be glad you don't live in Oslo—a daily desert spoonful of cod liver oil. You see, children, it was the custom to feed children cod liver oil in the good old times before we learned just what there was in it that made it so valuable, and now that we know it was vitamin D, the sunshine vitamin, some of us dear old fogey doctors keep right on prescribing the same old fish oil in spite of the fact that we have all the vitamin D any child requires in various pleasant forms nowadays.

Over in Norway cod liver oil is cheap—only a dollar and two cents a barrel. And I suppose the old folks harbor a fancy that it is good for a child's character or morale to force him to take the same thing his parents and grandparents took when they were little tots. Besides, vitamin D in the pleasant forms now available is more expensive, unless you know what's what in vitamins.

However, the children in the boarding school, who received a daily ration of vitamin D to supplement their otherwise excellent diet, had only 17 cavities per child, whereas the children in the day nursery (age from 3 to 7 years) had 14.6 cavities per child.

And don't let any one know I said so, but Dr. Collett observed that care of the teeth, brushing the teeth, apparently had nothing to do with the better condition of the teeth of the children in the boarding school who got their vitamin D every day. In fact the toothbrush and other mouth hygiene, other than filling cavities was dispensed with in the boarding school group, whereas the day nursery group, who did not get their daily ration of vitamin D and had so many cavities in their teeth, had to brush their teeth daily at school.

Among the various pleasant ways to take vitamin D to supplement the ordinary or normal diet (which is certain to be deficient in vitamin D) I may mention drinking vitamin D milk, taking say five drops daily if irradiated ergosterol in oil; or eating two or three tablets of irradiated yeast daily.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—We have had an opportunity to inquire about the President's health and found it good.

He took a substantial beating from the recent combined attack of acute indigestion and infected tooth. It took the steam out of his boilers for a time. He is on the pickup again, now.

Such, in brief, are the findings of Capt. Ross T. McIntire, naval physician assigned to the White House.

"A combination like that—acute indigestion and an acutely infected area around the root of a tooth—would shake anybody," Dr. McIntire said.

The President's progress was evident to reporters who saw him on his return from Florida fishing waters. He has a sort of mental "bounce" when he is riding high and feels good. He exhibited that at his press conference.

Dr. McIntire gauges the President's health in part by his zest for his work and exercise. When the zest is missing, a rest and special watching follow.

As a matter of fact, nothing much ever goes wrong with the President's health. He takes no tonics, medicine or pills. There is no such thing as a routine daily check-up except Dr. McIntire's "zest-measurement." Dr. McIntire doubts if the President would submit to sucking a thermometer every morning.

Fatigue is the major thing the physician has to watch for. The President works hard and can never get fully away from his job. On his South American trip a year ago, a batch of mail and radiograms awaited him at every stop. It was the same in Florida lately. But on such trips he does get away from the constant pressure of the White House.

Occasional Weight Trouble

Dr. McIntire urges the President to break away for a short rest about every two months. Sometimes the job is so pressing he can't really get away. His recent "rest trip" to Hyde Park wasn't much of a success.

The President's personal routine never gives the physician much cause for concern.

"As a matter of fact," Dr. McIntire observed, "the President is pretty darned normal."

The President has to watch his weight. Dr. McIntire likes it best when Mr. Roosevelt weighs between 180 and 185 pounds. Occasionally he slips over that but on his own initiative cuts down on his food. He eats normally, perhaps sparingly few sweets or desserts—and tries to be regular about his meals.

Breakfast is at 8:30 usually fruit juice, some cereal or an egg, and coffee. Lunch at 1 p. m. is equally light, and never includes meat. When the President has guests for lunch his own fare is often lighter than theirs. He eats a well rounded dinner but rarely lets himself go except on dishes he especially likes. Maryland terrapin is one.

A Quick Comeback

The President takes his exercise every afternoon with rare exceptions. He follows a course he worked out for himself years ago in Warm Springs. Occasionally he takes a brief nap or rest in late afternoons.

What impresses Dr. McIntire is the President's quick comeback from illness. Unless he is especially fatigued this "comeback" capacity is always evident. If the physician isn't satisfied with the pickup, he urges a vacation.

One wearing duty of the President and all his predecessors hasn't been solved yet, the matter of regularity. Dinners and receptions will come at the rate of two a week all the balance of this winter. Hundreds of guests file by. Each calls for a grip, a nod and a word or two. With the same energy the President could row half way across Lake Michigan.

Debts Reduced by School Boards in Four-Year Period

Association Claims 33 Per Cent Drop in Long-Term Indebtedness

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—The financial condition of Wisconsin schools is improving, and local school boards are now definitely following a "pay as you go" policy, the Wisconsin Education association reported in a new study today.

Observing that the long-term indebtedness of schools in the state has been reduced from $39,500,000 in 1932 to $27,500,000 in 1936, the association said that this is a greater reduction, both in terms of actual dollars and in per cent, than was made by any other unit of government in Wisconsin during the same period.

The association produced figures to show that the total reduction in long term indebtedness during the last four years has been approximately 33 per cent, contrasting with 5 per cent for counties, 18 per cent for cities, about 4 per cent for villages, and a slight increase in the indebtedness of towns. Of a total reduction of $12,000,000 since 1932 for all units of government, more than $12,000,000, or 46 per cent, is represented in decrease in school indebtedness, the association said.

The association noted that the per capita debt in 1932 was equal to $80.60 for each of Wisconsin's two million citizens 20 years of age and over, while last year it was only $77.60. At the same time the per capita school debt has decreased from a little less than $20 to less than $14 during the same period.

"Reduction in outstanding debts of schools means a decrease in annual interest payments of approximately $500,000, leaving that increased amount available either to reduce local property taxes or for costs more essentially educational."

School indebtedness in northeastern Wisconsin, cities was reported as follows: (The study does not include possible debt for very recent school construction, such as the new high school in the city of Appleton.)

Appleton $320,000; Green Bay $780,500; Chilton $90,000; Kaukauna $122,248; Manitowoc $863,500; Menasha $145,000 (excluding late 1937 construction); Neenah $235,000; New London none; Oshkosh $479,000; Seymour none; Shawano none; Two Rivers $212,000; Waupaca none.

IT'S ODD But It's Science

BY HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

AP Science Editor

Philadelphia — As we walk, talk, breathe, think, and feel, there courses over the fine nerve fibers that interconnect the various parts of our bodies bursts of activity whose passage is signaled by small electrical changes. These electrical signals can be amplified and made audible in a loud speaker just as radio signals are made audible on your radio.

The nerve signals vary from occasional "pops" to the rapid firing of a machine gun. Ordinarily they are triggered by touching, stretching, or pinching the sensory receptors distributed in and on our bodies.

But a nerve starved for calcium becomes an automatic Tommy-gun with rapid fire timing. This activity is not continuous but rhythmic, like the intermittent busy signal on your telephone.

This automatic rhythmicity, discovered by F. Brink, D. W. Brink, and M. G. Larabee, of the Johnson Foundation, University of Pennsylvania, can be regulated by regulating the calcium in the fluid bathing the nerve. Deprive the nerve calcium and it fires with a persistent rhythm.

A burst of activity, silence, another burst, without end — until the calcium is restored.

Reunion Parties to Greet Students Returning From Colleges and Universities

SCORES OF YOUNG PEOPLE will pour into the city this weekend to spend the holidays with their families here. Since September they have been studying in schools in the east and middlewest, and their Appleton friends have seen little of them, so that now that they are coming home for at least a full two weeks, dozens of reunion parties are planned.

Arriving from the east this weekend will be Miss Peggy Jennings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer H. Jennings, 1125 E. North street, who is a student at Wells college, Aurora, N. Y., and Miss Betty Buchanan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Buchanan, 1005 E. College avenue, who is a senior at Vassar college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., this year.

Also coming from an eastern school is Miss Marian Detman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Detman, 516 N. Bateman street, who is expected to arrive Friday from Mt. Holyoke college, South Hadley, Mass. Miss Betty Boyer will be home Saturday evening from Hiram college near Cleveland, Ohio. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. K. Boyer, 527 N. Ida street.

Miss Mary Fannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fannon, 1117 E. Eldorado street, is expected home Saturday morning from Principia college, St. Louis, Mo., and Miss Mary Alsted, daughter of the L. L. Alsteds, 735 E. South street, will arrive the same day from Northwestern university at Evanston, Ill.

Because her school is so far away Miss Ruth Orblison, who attends Pomona college at Claremont, Calif., will not come home for Christmas but will spend the holidays instead as the guest of a friend at Portland, Ore. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Orblison, 214 S. Rankin street.

The three Appleton girls who attend Rosary college at River Forest, Ill., will not come home until next Tuesday. They are the Misses Marion Kramhold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kramhold, 1444 W. Prospect avenue, Jeanette Schuch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Schuch, 605 S. State street; and Mary Catherine Flanagan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Flanagan, route 2.

Miss Betty Ann Thuerer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Thuerer, 56 Bellaire court, will arrive home Friday evening from St. Louis, where she is attending Principia preparatory school. Miss Lucille Weber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Weber, 230 S. Oak street, will come Saturday morning from the College of St. Scholastica at Duluth.

To Return from East Ben Lewis, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harry P. Lewis, 514 N. Drew street, is expected home Sunday noon from Middletown, Conn., where he is a freshman at Wesleyan university. Also coming from the east this weekend is James Whitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Whitman, 114 S. Alton court, who is attending Dartmouth college, Hanover, N. H.

Robert Stenger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Stenger, 320 N. Union street, will be home Friday or Saturday from Notre Dame university, Notre Dame, Ind. Karl and Robert Langlois, students at the same university, will be home to spend the holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Langlois, 330 W. Sixth street.

Arriving this weekend from Ripon college will be Wayne Bolton, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Bolton, 818 E. College avenue, and Robert Chapelle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Chapelle, 108 N. Green Bay street. John Koffend is expected home Saturday night from Wabash college, Crawfordsville, Ind., where he is a senior. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Koffend, 230 W. Prospect avenue. Kenneth Dickinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. K. S. Dickinson, 741 W. Front street, will arrive Friday night from Andover, Mass., where he is a student at Phillips academy.

Included in the large contingent that will arrive in Appleton this weekend from the University of Wisconsin will be Miss Mildred Eads, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Eads, 114 N. Union street, Harry Zerbel, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Zerbel, 613 W. Franklin street; Tom Catlin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Catlin, 322 South court; Howard Mulder, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mulder, 309 N. Bennett street; Vincent Dutcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Dutcher, 41 Bellaire court; Douglas Ogilvie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Ogilvie, 946 E. Pacific street; John Schlitz, son of Mrs. Susan L. Schlitz, 915 E. Franklin street; Miss Margaret Plank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Plank, 340 W. Prospect avenue; George Deml Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George Deml, 509 N. Richmond street; Jane and John Frank, daughter and son of Mrs. J. P. Frank, 226 N. Park avenue; and Miss Margaret Kuck, daughter of Mrs. Ella Kuck, 1220 E. Pacific street.

Lois Pogratt Will be Bride of Oshkosh Man Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pogratt, 1503 W. Rogers avenue, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Lois, to E. Harris Pynch, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Pynch, 129 Franklin avenue, Oshkosh. No date has been set for the wedding.

Freedom Man Is Honored On Birthday

ALL of his 12 children and a large group of relatives and friends gathered Tuesday night at the home of Albert Luebke in the town of Freedom to honor him on the occasion of his sixty-ninth birthday anniversary.

President of the Cicero Mutual Fire Insurance company and president of the Hartland Cicero Torrens and Hall Insurance company, which he organized, Mr. Luebke has taken a prominent part in the affairs of his community for more than a quarter of a century. In 1907 he was one of the original organizers of the Apple Creek Farmers Telephone company, becoming its first secretary-treasurer, a position he has held ever since.

For 33 years, until the time of his resignation 2 years ago, Mr. Luebke was secretary of St. Peter's Lutheran church at Freedom. He is one of the organizers of the Outagamie Equity Exchange, and has been its secretary since its organization. He also has served on the county board and as chairman of the town of Freedom and is at present a deputy sheriff. He has been guardian of several families.

Godfrey is Toastmaster Edwin S. Godfrey, Appleton attorney, was the toastmaster at last night's party, and the Rev. Theophil Brenner, Freedom, and Emil Gosse, Seymour, spoke, paying tribute to Mr. Luebke. Henry Fulcer led in the singing of "Happy Birthday," "Father" and "There's a Dad in the Hills." A huge birthday cake was served.

Mr. Luebke's 12 children, all of whom spoke briefly, are Mrs. Herman Kositzke, who has 4 children and 3 grandchildren; George Luebke, Kaukauna, who has 5 children; Mrs. George Pirner, who has 1 child; Mrs. Henry Fulcer, who has 4 children and 1 grandchild; Louis Luebke, who has 6 children; Mrs. Arthur Kollath, who has 1 child; Erwin Luebke, who has 2 children; Mrs. Gordon Remter, who has 3 children; Erich Luebke, who has 3 children; Walter Luebke, who has 1 child; Miss Leona Luebke, and Orville Luebke, who has 2 children.

Others present at the party were Mrs. Anna Schimmelpfennig, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harp, Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. John McLaughlin, Freedom; Mr. and Mrs. Otto Daelke, Appleton; Mr. and Mrs. Peter Vandenberg, Stockbridge; Mrs. Elsie Jansen, Little Chute; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boers, the Rev. and Mrs. Theophile Brenner and Mr. and Mrs. John Roinke, Freedom; Mr. and Mrs. Emil Gosse, Seymour; and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Godfrey, Appleton.

Mr. Luebke, who was born in Oshkosh, has lived on his present farm for 37 years. Formerly he lived on a farm in Grand Chute.

1,000 School Children Enjoy Clare Major Drama Version of 'Little Men'

BY NELL CHAMBERLAIN
ONE of the best-loved and most widely read books of the last three generations came to life before the eyes of over 1,000 school children yesterday afternoon when the Clare Tree Major Children's Theater presented a dramatized version of "Little Men" as its second production of the season in Appleton.

"Little Men" probably has greater appeal for the boys than any of the major productions given in Appleton thus far, for it is a story for boys about boys and is full of situations and scenes which they can understand and appreciate.

Mrs. Nelson Named Head Of Circle

MRS. C. C. NELSON was re-elected captain of Circle 1 of First Congregational church. Mrs. F. J. Harwood was chosen vice captain in place of Mrs. William H. Zuehlke, and Mrs. John W. Wilson was again named secretary-treasurer at a meeting following a luncheon Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. R. E. Carners, 826 E. Alton street.

Mrs. Mildred Laun, Kiel, played Christmas carols while the group sang, and she and Mrs. Cora Morse gave several piano duets. Twenty-two persons were present. Mrs. F. M. Johnston and Mrs. H. C. Humphrey were assistant hostesses. The next meeting will be Jan. 18 at the home of Mrs. T. E. Orbison, with Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. John Stuckert as assistants.

January reading books were distributed to members of Circle Grace of First Baptist church at a meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Diderich, 516 E. North street. Twelve members and four guests attended. The group decided to send a gift to a missionary in Cleveland, Ohio, and gifts were brought for the white gift Christmas baskets. Gifts were exchanged among the group. The next meeting will be Jan. 11.

Ushers of St. Joseph's church will meet at 7:30 this evening at the monastery to make preparations for Christmas.

Betty Maas read a Christmas story and Mrs. C. C. Bailey presented a group of children in a playlet at the meeting of Queen Esther's and Standard Bearers of First Methodist Episcopal church Tuesday night at the church.

"Legends of the Madonna" was the subject of a talk given by Miss Mary de Jonge, reference librarian at Appleton Public Library, at the meeting of Women's Auxiliary of All Saints Episcopal church Tuesday afternoon at the parish hall. About 40 women were present. A silver tea followed the meeting for which Mrs. F. A. W. Hammond and Mrs. Ben H. Russell poured. At the January meeting new officers will be elected.

A social meeting of Zion Lutheran Ladies society will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the school auditorium. Gifts will be exchanged and hostesses will include Mrs. Louis Thies, Mrs. Joseph Treiber, Mrs. Henry Techlin, Mrs. Minnie Wenzlaff, Mrs. Louis Wenzlaff, Mrs. Otto Zimmerman, Mrs. Ada Tock and Mrs. Henry Staedt.

A Christmas party for St. Martha Guild of All Saints Episcopal church was held Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. A. C. Denney, Hycrest. Mrs. A. F. McGrew won the bridge prize, and gifts were exchanged. Twenty-one members were present. Assistant hostesses were Mrs. William J. Spicer and Mrs. John Millis.

Oshkosh Team High in Play of East, West Hands
Two Oshkosh men, Frank Stein and E. Dickman, were high for east and west with 50 match points in the weekly contract bridge tournament session held last night at the Conway hotel. First for north and south were Mark Catlin, Jr., and E. J. Van Vonderen, with 66 match points. Second place winners were Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Steinberg, east and west, with 49 match points; and Dr. George Masart and Mrs. H. H. Haldeman, with 64.

Play will be continued Thursday night in the contract bridge tournament held weekly at Elks hall under the auspices of the Appleton Contract Bridge association.

Women's Relief Corps To Hold Party Thursday
Women's Relief corps of George D. Eggleston post, Grand Army of the Republic, will meet at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Elks hall for a business session and a Christmas party. Each member will bring a gift to exchange and also a gift for poor children of the city. In charge of the afternoon's program will be Mrs. Oran Peotter, Mrs. Kate Wheeler and Mrs. Augusta Sanders.

Conduct Classes for City Police Officers
Classes for officers of the Appleton police department have been resumed under the supervision of Lieutenant Herbert W. Kapp. During the last few months classes for the rookie officers were held and they have now ended the course of instruction and will continue with the older members of the department. The classes are held every other Monday night.

Miss Kathryn Timm Of Chilton Is Wed To Milwaukee Man

Miss Kathryn Timm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Timm, Chil- ton, and Louis Boehme, Milwau- kee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Boehme, Jackson, Mo., were mar- ried at noon Friday at the home of the bride's parents, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. R. K. Ramthun, pastor of St. Martin's Lutheran church, Chilton. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret Timm, as maid of honor, and the best man was Leslie Papke. The wedding march was played by A. E. Doering, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. After the ceremony a dinner was served at the Hotel Chilton to the follow- ing guests: the bridal party, Mr. and Mrs. William Timm, the Rev. and Mrs. Ramthun, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Doering, Chilton; and Miss Charlotte Luther, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Schoultz and Victor Mulholland, Milwaukee. Later a reception was held at the home of the bride's par- ents.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Boehme will reside in the St. Lawrence Hotel apartments, Milwaukee. The bride is a gradu- ate of the Chilton High school, and she also took a commercial course in the Sheboygan Business college. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Jackson High school and of the Milwaukee School of Engineering. He is now with the Cutter and Hammer firm of Milwaukee.

Neenah Girls Are Planning Sleigh Party

PARENTS of the young social set in Neenah-Menasha and other cities in the Fox River valley have already become recon- ciled to the knowledge that they will see little of their college sons and daughters during the Christ- mas holidays as more invitations to holiday parties are received even before the young people arrive home.

The most recent invitations to be extended are those from Miss Emily Searle and Miss Frances Whit- tie, both of Neenah, who will en- tertain at a sleigh hide party Sun- day, Dec. 26, with a late supper at the Searle home on Twelfth street in Neenah. Thirty guests have been invited to the old-fashioned party which is being held especial- ly for Oscar Strauss of Milwaukee who will be a house guest at the Whiting home for the week fol- lowing Christmas.

The first party for the young people in the Twin Cities and Appleton will be held Tuesday eve- ning, Dec. 21, when Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Bergstrom, 561 E. Wisconsin avenue, Neenah, entertain at a dancing party for their daughters, Miss Alice Perry and Miss Mar- jorie Bergstrom, at the Bergstrom home.

A tea dance will be held from 4 to 7 o'clock Thursday, Dec. 22, at the Valley Inn when Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gilbert, Mrs. Karl Mory and Mr. and Mrs. Mowry Smith entertain for their children who will be home from school.

Christmas evening, an Oshkosh group of young men will entertain at a dance at the Century club and on Dec. 27, the Kimberly Stuarts and Chester Shepards will enter- tain at the Shepard home in honor of Miss Stuart and Miss Mary Hoyt Cowles.

Fourteen Neenah-Menasha and Appleton girls will entertain at a dancing party in the Menasha club Thursday, Dec. 30. Hostesses will be Peggy Banta, Catherine Banta, Margaret Brown, Alice Perry Bergstrom, Mary Fannon, Priscilla Gilbert, Mariot Gilbert, Peggy Jennings, Peggy Kimberly, God Kuchmsted, Jean McNaughton.

Foods of Various Countries Served At Surprise Dinner

Mrs. A. B. Fisher, who will leave Appleton early in January for a trip around the world, had a foretaste of the foods and customs of various countries when she was honored at a surprise international dinner last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Glockzin, 316 W. Prospect ave- nue. Her hosts and hostesses each prepared and served one course for the dinner, and the place cards had the menu written on the backs of them in various languages.

The fruits of Italy formed the cocktail, and English plum pudding, French bread and German dishes were included on the menu. The hosts and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Glockzin, Mrs. R. F. Walters, Dr. Louis C. Baker, Marshall Hui- bert, Mrs. Anna Hulbert, Miss Elsie Bohstedt, the Misses Margaret and Mimi Mory, Ann Shattuck and Laura Thuckens.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Mahler, E. Forest avenue, Neenah, will enter- tain at a New Year's eve dancing party at their home in honor of their daughter, Miss Polly. Invita- tions have been issued for 100 guests.

Different Viewpoints Cause Marriage Rifts

BY DOROTHY DIX

Perhaps the greatest mistake that husbands and wives make in dealing with each other is in thinking that because men and women are of different sexes they think and feel differently and react differently to the little commonplace, everyday problems of life.

Unfortunately, this belief has been fostered by the traditional conception of man as a big, strong, self-sufficient being whose mighty intellect lifted him above all the petty weaknesses of humanity. Woman was painted as a beautiful, frail creature, with more heart than brains, whose sole desire was to attach herself to some man and have him make a pet of her, feed her on cream and tie a blue ribbon around her neck.

It is because they act upon the mistaken theory that their husbands and wives don't look at things from their point of view and don't want what they want that causes so many married couples to be forever at cross purposes with each other and inflict unintentional cruelties upon each other.

It is for instance, because men are sold to the belief that women do not feel as they do about financial independence that causes so many husbands to refuse to give their wives an allowance and make them come like beggars to them for every cent. The husband isn't stingy. His wife has an account at all the best stores. But he never gives her any money that is her very own and that she can spend without telling what she did with it.

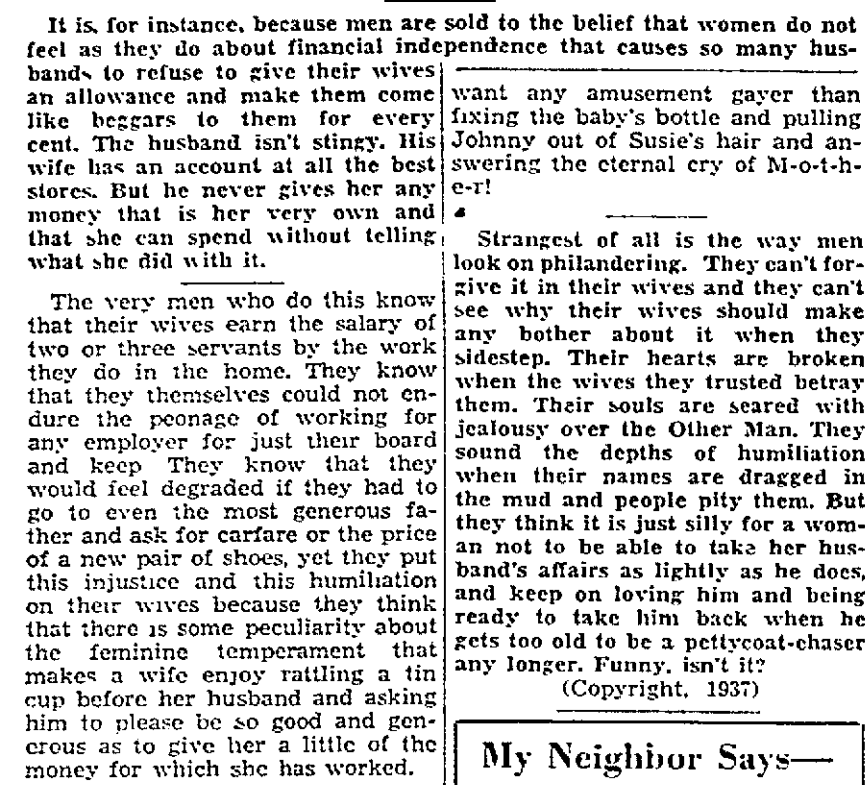

The very men who do this know that their wives earn the salary of two or three servants by the work they do in the home. They know that they themselves could not endure the penance of working for any employer for just their board and keep. They know that they would feel degraded if they had to go to even the most generous father and ask for carfare or the price of a new pair of shoes, yet they put this injustice and this humiliation on their wives because they think that there is some peculiarity about the feminine temperament that makes a wife enjoy rattling a tin cup before her husband and asking him to please be so good and generous as to give her a little of the money for which she has worked.

Men know, to cite another common illustration, that nothing stimulates their ambition and makes them put all that is in them into their jobs like a little appreciation, a few words of praise. On the contrary, nothing breaks down a man's morale and makes him ask "What's the use" and turn slacker like having his good work passed over in silence or rewarded with some criticism.

Yet there are thousands upon thousands of husbands to whom it apparently never occurs that their wives need a few rounds of applause now and then to hearten them up and spur them on. They take all that their wives do for them for granted. They eat a hundred good dinners without a comment, but raise ructions if on the hundred and first there is a little too much salt in the soup.

Every man knows that after a hard day's work he needs change and diversion, to get away from his workshop and see and do something different that will pep him up and make him forget his worries. So well is this recognized that a whole cycle of amusements have been devised for the Tired Business Man. But when Friend Wife complains of the monotony of housework and says that she feels that if she can't get out of the house and away from the children for an hour or so she will scream, it is another story.

Her husband is shocked and thinks there is something unnatural about her. Sunday afternoon with the little darlings give him an acute attack of nervous prostration, but he can't see why any woman would

A Visit to Pompeii

Naples, Italy: Not far from Naples is one of the most famous cities of the ancient world. It is known as Pompeii (pom-pay-ee), and it gives us facts about the life of people long ago.

As I rode toward Pompeii, I looked at the smoking cone of Mt. Vesuvius. This volcano has erupted a number of times during recent centuries. In 1929, it let loose a river of lava which destroyed a village. The people in the village were able to run to safety before the lava reached their homes.

Cut sugar cookies with a star shaped cutter and sprinkle tops with red sugar. These make attractive Christmas cookies for the children.

Slate or enamel sinks may be kept in good condition if occasionally washed with a soap jelly made by dissolving a large bar of soap in two quarts of boiling water to which two tablespoons of kerosene have been added.

Perfume stains may be removed from linen bureau scarfs by the application of peroxide of hydrogen.

Buy a small live Christmas tree now and plant in a box that can be moved into the house at Christmas time. In the Spring it may be set out in the garden. Set away in the cellar after Christmas or, if the ground is not frozen, it may be planted.

When making a Christmas fruit cake containing nuts, raisins and citron much labor may be saved by putting all into chopper at one time.

If a little water is poured over the egg white left when cooking and allow to stand in refrigerator for several hours it will whip as well as the white of a fresh egg.

(Copyright, 1937)

The street on which I first walked is now called the Street of Elephants. We are not sure it had that name in ancient times, but alongside it is a statue of the "goddess of plenty."

Turning to the right, I reached the remains of an open-air theater. The stone seats are still there, ranged about a hillside. Down below was the stage where actors sang, danced and talked to amuse the crowds. The guide said the theater had enough seats for 5,000 people.

Another public place of interest is the forum, or market-place. Farmers came to the city to sell fruits and vegetables to the people. Other kinds of goods also were sold in the Forum of Pompeii.

In another part of this "city of the dead," I saw a drinking fountain which probably was used by people as well as beasts of burden. Fastened to the fountain was an image of Mercury, the Roman messenger god. The fountain was dug from the ruins of Pompeii.

Alongside another street I saw pieces of metal pipe, each about 25 feet long and an inch and a half in diameter. The pipes were dug from the ruins of Pompeii.

(For Travel section of your scrapbook.)

Riddles, games and puzzles will be found in the "Funmaker" leaflet. If you would like a copy send a 3c stamped, return envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Mr. Vesuvius

The best known eruption, however, took place in the year 79. Then it was that Pompeii was buried by a rain of ashes and by lava.

Entering the main gateway, I walked along the street, one of the very streets used 1,900 years ago. It was paved with blocks of stone. I passed by dozens of shops in which goods were sold before the volcano did its work. I also saw dozens of houses in which people lived once upon a time.

Child Must Be Interested To Practice Music Lesson

BY ANGELO PATRI

The bane of the music teacher's lives is the practice work of their pupils. Children want to play instruments; "they love their music lessons," but how they hate to sit down and count and finger over and over the same phrase until they master it. "He'd be a real musician if he would only practice. He's made splendid progress considering his lack of practice." Those words almost say themselves so often have the music teachers said them. "Lack of interest" would mean the same thing and come nearer explaining the children's hatred of the practice hour.

We all understand that few of the children learning how to play musical instruments are going to be musicians in the professional meaning of the term. But many of them could learn to play well enough to give pleasure to other people and provide spiritual repose and enjoyment for themselves. Playing an instrument is a way of freeing one's spirit of the pressure of life. Everybody needs some such outlet. But children do not know what they are talking about when you tell them that. All they understand is that they have to sit or stand in one place for a certain number of clock ticks and translate notes on the paper into notes on their instrument while the other happy children run free in the sunshine.

Parents want to do what is best for the children. They think that learning music will benefit the child. They find he can learn and execute his music lesson. But he hates it. Are they to drop the music? Make the child practice and continue to learn? That must be according to the child. If he is not overworked by school lessons, if he is well, if he has enough talent to play passably, why not take his lessons as he takes any other training? We make him learn the names of the States and the Presidents and the extraction of the square root. The practice hour holds no less meaningful ideas, and certainly no greater hardship. And the ability to listen to music understandingly to play a little, will certainly give him as much joy as other accomplishments.

Sometime music lessons are an oppression of the spirit. Then they are bad. Music should release the spirit. It is the language of the soul and should never be distorted into a punishment. Sometimes a parent remembers his youthful longing to create music. He was denied the privilege, but he determines that his child shall have it at all costs. But this child has no such desire, and no talent. He is oppressed by the idea. That will do no good. We cannot give a taste or a talent to a child. He must have it in him to begin with or he will never have it.

To those parents who make great sacrifices to buy pianos and violins and pay for lessons for children who cry and storm and run away at the mention of practice time, my word is, "Don't. It isn't worth it." To those who children show plainly that they can play, but hate the discipline which learning demands, my word is, "Go ahead. See that they do their stint."

Many children who cry about practice hour will do nicely if they can practice in a group, or play with an orchestra. That is the best plan for music teachers to follow. Musicians need audiences, and a group of children learning together,

Perfume Remains Best Gift

BY ELSIE PIERCE

The nicest compliment a man or woman can pay a woman is: perfume. The grandest gift remains: perfume. There is never any fear lest she have it, because one cannot have too many bottles of precious fragrance. And in choosing the one perfume for her, one is no longer limited. For perfumes may be linked to mood, to time, to type, to occasion, to costume. Furthermore, whether your budget permits a very nominal or a fabulous sum, there's something on the perfume counter to answer your needs. And you may buy a single dram flacon or a whole perfume ensemble or wardrobe.

Originally planned for the bride and her attendants, there is a perfume bouquet ensemble with no less than five flower perfumes. It would delight the heart of any woman, bride of the past, present or future.

Another perfume whose very name suggests music is a combination of harmonious odors... a symphony in scent. The musical analogy is carried out even to the copper tinted label and musical notes.

Another provocative perfume promises to create a different fragrance with each individual skin it contacts. A complicated chemical combination of preparations is said to be responsible for the perfume's chameleon-like quality.

If she is young and gay, if she thrills readily at the thought of pleasant experiences to come there is a perfume that captures the very mood of anticipation.

If she is a brilliant young thing who dares obey a spur-of-the-moment impulse, if she is fearless of danger, if she invites adventure, then give her a perfume that by its very name and essence flatters the spirit of the impromptu.

If she loves the great outdoors give her a pungent perfume that is spirited and distinguished.

If she is fair and frail, floral perfumes should flatter.

There is such a wealth, such a world of fragrance to choose from. So, by all means, give perfume!

QUESTIONS OF IMPULSE AND NOT RULE

Dear Mrs. Post: You can tell me my nurses presents when I leave the hospital. I haven't gone as yet, but expect to any day and as I am not having any private nursing, even though I am having a private room, I wondered what was expected. (2) Will I be considered selfish if I take my flowers home with me?

Answer: (1) You are not expected to give the nurses anything. Some people do, of course, but this is entirely a personal question depending upon how each one feels and what she can afford to do. In your case there are probably a number of nurses who have been taking care of you from time to time and it would hardly do to give something to one and not to all of them. But merely as a suggestion, some one in your family might sometimes bring a cake from home or a box of candy, which you can offer them.

(2) Certainly you take home as many of your flowers as you want to. In fact, any that arrive the day you leave, or the evening before, would be left in their box to keep fresh for their journey home.

Dear Mrs. Post: Do you consider this invitation not cordial? "We are will have much more interest, much more desire to play than they possibly can have as individuals."

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Culbertson Called Upon To Settle Bridge Dispute

BY ELY CULBERTSON

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: The following hands, which were dealt in a team-of-four match game, have resulted in months of acrimonious discussion between my partner and myself. In order that a friendship of several years' standing may not be further imperiled, we have agreed to abide by your decision. Here is the hand:

The bidding:

South West North East
1 diamond Pass 2 clubs Pass
2 no trump Pass 3 no trump Pass
Pass Double Pass Pass

"North insists that the correct opening with South's cards was one spade, and that over two clubs South should have responded two diamonds. Is this correct?"

South believes that there is a close decision as to whether his response, after having opened with one diamond, should have been two spades or two no trump. He felt that with the queen of clubs in his hand, although a singleton, he could reasonably expect as good a play at no trump as at a spade declaration. Is this reasoning correct?

"In any event, whether South's bids were correct or wrong, was North justified in raising to three no trump on the second round of bidding, or should North have bid three clubs, leaving the responsibility with South as to the final declaration?"

"Finally, will you be kind enough to state the correct bidding?"

"Yours very truly,"

"F. E. Arlington, Va."

Taking the points in order, I agree with North's insistence that the correct opening bid on South's hand is one spade, not one diamond. The most probable response, from South's point of view, is clubs. He should not anticipate answering this probable response with no trump. To do so has two bad features: First, it conceals the spade suit, which may be the best contract; second, South's singleton club, even though the queen, is a defect at no trump play. Having opened with one diamond, it would be equally unwise to show the spade suit at the two level in response to two clubs. Such a rebid, being a "reverse," would indicate a hand substantially better than South actually held.

One spade as the opening bid takes care of all eventualities. If North responds two clubs, South's second bid is two diamonds. And the same holds true over a no trump response by North. If North bids two hearts over the spade, South bids three hearts. In short, any response North can make to an opening one spade bid will not embarrass South for a rebid.

As to North's action in going to three no trump, this is a close point, but for that very reason North cannot be censured. He was entitled to assume at least two clubs in South's hand, and these might be sufficient to bring home six club tricks. The correct bidding is:

SOUTH NORTH
1 spade 2 clubs
2 diamonds 3 clubs
3 no trump 4 clubs
Pass

In this bidding sequence North should not pass to three no trump, especially when doubled. Here South has bid three no trump obviously as a last resort. His bidding showed strength in three suits which in itself feature lack of a club fit, the one feature of which North must be reasonably assured before he can permit the no trump contract to stand.

Today and Tomorrow

BY WALTER LIPPMAN

Trotsky Retired

The unofficial commission, headed by Mr. John Dewey, which has been studying the Trotsky vs. the Soviet government, has submitted its report. It finds that the Russian trials have been "frame-ups." This is the verdict of a group of men, and women, some of whom are communists, all of whom have been the consistent friends of the Russian revolution. They declare, as Mr. Dewey puts it, that the Russian trials signify "the repudiation by a disciplined political organization, world-wide in scope and influence, of the principles of truth and justice upon which the foundations of civilization are laid. It signifies an extraordinary corruption of the idealistic heritage of the Russian revolution."

I wonder about that word "corruption." It seems to imply that the regime founded by Lenin and Trotsky was in fact based upon the principles of truth and justice and that this idealistic heritage has been destroyed by Stalin. Mr. Dewey seems to suggest that Trotsky is the victim of a conspiracy engineered by men who have betrayed the principles of the revolution that Lenin and Trotsky led. But I think it more likely that Trotsky is the victim of the principles which he did so much to impose upon Russia, that he is not betrayed by conspirators but hoist by his own petard.

For when, during the days of his power, did Trotsky ever respect those principles of truth and justice which Mr. Dewey and his friends now appeal to on Trotsky's behalf? Were those principles ever available for the protection of any of the victims of the dictatorship and the terror which Trotsky had so great a part in conducting? They were not. On the contrary, in the days of his glory Trotsky denounced as the effete cries of decadent capitalistic democracy those very principles he now appeals to.

Only now, when the devil is sick, the devil a monk would be.

Report May be of Considerable Importance

Yet this report may well prove to be of considerable importance. For it may mark a stage in the emancipation of western liberals from the dominion that Russian communism has exercised over their minds in the past twenty years. To have realized, as Mr. Dewey does, that the present Russian government repudiates the principles of truth and justice must, I think, eventually lead to the realization that this is not the corruption of, but the inevitable consequence of, the ideals of communism.

This conclusion is extremely un- congenial to almost all the men and women in western countries who are seriously interested in a better social order. Almost all of the so-called Left, even the moderate Left, has for nearly twenty years believed that the ideal society of the future would be a planned and directed collectivism. With varying degrees of emphasis and conviction they have hoped and believed that the ideal could be realized without open class war, without dictatorship and terrorism. But almost invariably, quite as a matter of course, it has been taken for granted by the spokesmen of the Left that the measure of any man's progressivism, or as they call it, his liberalism, is how far he is willing to go on the road to Moscow.

In the post-war, but particularly since about 1931, it has been the tacit assumption of progressive thinkers that in essence and outline the inevitable and the desirable goal of social reform could be seen in Russia. The unpleasant aspects of the Russian experiment were regarded as accidental and transitory.

20 Years After Revolt Despotism is Absolute

We are now witnessing the breakdown of this conventional and fashionable post-war progressivism as men begin to see that the dictatorship and terrorism of Russian communism are not accidental and are not transitory. Twenty years after the revolution the despotism is as complete and as ruthless as it was in the beginning; and it is so successful that it can march 90,000,000 voters to the polls and make them act as if they had no ground for dissent or important disagreement.

So the Russian experiment has also been an experience, and in increasing numbers men who have been its friends and have thought it illustrated the social ideal are beginning to say that dictatorship and terror are not merely the means to communism but its necessary condition and inward principle, that in so far as any nation attempts by its government to plan and manage the labor of the people it must, as in Russia, make itself the master of their lives and of their consciences as well.

Introduces Bill For Adoption of Revised Calendar

Every Year Would Begin On Sunday in Proposed Time Table

Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

Washington—Congress, which has been chided by Republican members during the special session for having time on its hands, will find itself with time on its hands in a big way if it takes up the proposal offered by Congressman Joseph Gray of Pennsylvania to revise the calendar.

Congressman Gray has introduced a joint resolution proposing official adoption of a revised calendar to be known as the "universal calendar," to be effective Jan. 1, 1939.

The new calendar, which Gray said has been presented to the League of Nations, has been worked over in loving detail by astronomers, mathematicians, and others.

Several countries have given it their official approval, several others have come out frankly against it, while most of them have "reserved judgment."

Lovers of order and regulation will approve the universal calendar. Every year would begin on Sunday. The year would be divided into four quarters, with three months to a quarter.

The first day of January, April, July and October would always fall on Sunday, and each would always have thirty-one days.

February, May, August and November would inevitably begin on Wednesday and contain thirty days. March, June, September and December also would always have thirty days, and they would begin on Friday.

Extra Day in December

"Where were you the night of December 'Y'?" a prosecuting attorney would ask a respondent, under the proposed calendar. For in order to take up the slack, it provides for extra day between December 30 and January 1 be thus termed.

Every fourth year, there would be a June L. This is the present February 29 in leap years.

December Y could be December Yet and June L could be June Leap as far as Congressman Gray is concerned. He doesn't care how they are designated as long as the extra days are there and recognized.

Proponents of the universal calendar have pointed out that the business world could have millions of dollars annually in their book-keeping with the "simplified" calendar.

One big hitch is that church calendars throughout all denominations would doubtless have to be revised, along with the Gregorian revision.

The new calendar puts Christmas on Monday, the Fourth of July on

Chemists Hear Talk On Oxidation Process

Dr. E. S. Guzman Barron of the University of Chicago, described facts and researches on "Oxidation-Reduction Systems of Biological Importance" at a meeting of the local section of the American Chemical Society Monday night at Lawrence college.

He explained the process of oxidation in the body from the time oxygen is taken by the heme from the lungs and transferred to the tissues where oxidation of the food takes place to give energy. Small amounts of iron, copper, manganese, vitamins and other substances are able to make this oxidation easier or to prevent it, he said.

New London Youth Must Serve Term At Reformatory

Robert Anderson, 21, Arrested After Gun Scuffle With Cab Driver

Oshkosh — A 21-year-old New London youth this morning was sentenced to serve from 1 to 15 years in the state reformatory at Green Bay by Municipal Judge S. J. Luchsinger after pleading guilty of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, pointing a loaded weapon at another person not in self defense and carrying a concealed weapon while in a state of intoxication.

The youth, Robert Anderson, 21, 608 S. Pearl street, New London, and a student at Appleton Vocational school, was arrested near a cottage on Lake Winnebago near Waverly beach by county police about 3:10 this morning after he threatened an Appleton cab driver with a gun and forced a minor New London girl to leave the cab with him.

According to police, Anderson called at an Appleton rooming house where the girl was staying, and she accompanied him after he told her that her mother had notified him that the girl's mother at New London was ill. Anderson then got into the cab with the girl and took her to a cottage near Waverly beach just off Highway 114, town of Menasha, Winnebago county.

Shown Revolver

While in the cab Anderson exhibited a .22 calibre revolver, which he told the court he had purchased as a Christmas present for a brother. Anderson said he had visited three Appleton taverns before calling for the girl.

The girl appealed to the cab driver, Gordon Welton, 217 E. Calumet street, Appleton, for help and in a scuffle that followed the gun was fired, but no one was hurt, according to police. Anderson said the gun was fired accidentally in the scuffle.

Welton then drove to a nearby tavern and notified Menasha police. A call was immediately put on the police radio system at Oshkosh and County Motorcycle Officer Irving Stip and Deputy Sheriff Marshall Searle answered.

Thinking the couple might be in the cottage, Searle returned to Menasha to secure more help and in the meantime Officer Stip saw the couple. The girl had run down the road, the court was told, and Anderson was trying to take her back to the cottage. Anderson said he had fired the revolver a second time to break a lock on the cottage door.

Officer Stip ordered Anderson to surrender and the latter complied, dropping his gun into the snow. He was then taken to Oshkosh.

Anderson was arraigned in municipal court this morning, waived preliminary hearing and was immediately bound over. He pleaded guilty to the charges.

Judge Luchsinger in imposing the sentence said "only circumstances" saved the youth from facing an actual murder charge.

Plows and Workmen Busy Cleaning Snow From Streets, Walks

Two snow plows and two graders were turned loose on Appleton streets this morning to combat the seasons first snowfall interfering with pedestrian and automobile traffic, according to Theodore Albrecht, street department superintendent.

All regular street department workmen were given snow shovels this morning and put to work removing snow from streets and sidewalks. The rubbish pickup, started yesterday in the second district, was delayed until Thursday and all available men were put to work on snow removal.

Sand boxes have been placed at intersections along College avenue and department heads urge citizens to help keep arterials and sidewalks safe by spreading the sand on the ice.

Koepe Brothers Submit Low Bid On Concrete Pipe

Works Board Will Recommend Council Approval of Offer

The board of public works will recommend at tonight's council meeting that the low bidder, Koepe Brothers Construction company, be awarded the contract to furnish the city with concrete pipe for storm sewer installation, according to Carl J. Becker, city clerk.

The low bid offered 1,324 feet of 18-inch concrete pipe at $1.17 per lineal foot; 840 feet of 24-inch concrete pipe at $1.70 per lineal foot; and 2,540 feet of 36-inch concrete pipe at $3.05 per lineal foot. Other bidders were Badger Concrete company, Oshkosh, and Wisconsin Concrete Pipe and Culvert company, Sheboygan.

The board also will recommend that the council accept new pavement from Outagamie street to Linwood avenue. The board will recommend that black top pavement on College avenue and Washington street be accepted with the reservation that low areas be brought up to grade.

Passage of two ordinances will be recommended by the ordinance committee, according to the report of E. P. Grignon, chairman. One of the ordinances would regulate bicycle registration and traffic. The other would regulate the height of shrubs near dangerous intersections.

A report of the finance committee contains a recommendation to the council that all committees list salaries for men in the various departments under their jurisdiction and submit them to the committee not later than Dec. 27.

The recreation committee will meet at 4:30 this afternoon; the fire and water committee will convene at 7:15 this evening, and the relief committee will meet at 7 o'clock tonight to prepare reports for the council.

CHEFS CLUB HARD AT WORK IN SCHOOL KITCHEN

Cooking classes at the Appleton Vocational school aren't limited to young brides and brides-to-be, for there's one group meeting on Friday nights composed entirely of men, 10 of them, to be exact. They call themselves the Chefs club and in the above picture you see six of them gathered around a table with their instructor, Mrs. J. M. Macauley.

Reading from left to right, they are: F. C. Steinkne, (with white cap) 222 N. Durkee street; Orville Vandervehey, 615 N. Richmond street; Mrs. Macauley; R. N. Hubbel, 404 W. Eighth street; Art Hartzheim, 921 W. Winnebago street; Carl Beecher, 1411 W. College avenue; Claude Greisch, 906 N. State street.

Mrs. Macauley says that the men are most interested in "just plain cooking" and in learning how to "get meals in a hurry." They've prepared several short meals and two or three kinds of breakfasts and are "doing very well," she says. Two or three have asked to learn how to bake cakes and they'll go into that the second semester. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Forgery Warrant Issued For Milwaukee Woman

Naperville, Iowa—(P)—Sam Kelly, chief of police at Davenport, Iowa, notified Naperville authorities today he held a forgery warrant for Miss Ella Carmen White, 26, of Milwaukee, held in jail here. Kelly said he would send for her.

Sergeant Alfred Rickert of the Naperville police force said Miss White confessed passing fraudulent checks in Davenport, Rock Island, Ill., and Milwaukee. Rickert said Miss White, who was seized on charges of intoxication, told him the checks were drawn on a Davenport bank. He said she admitted using several aliases in passing checks totalling $105.

Charles Wright to Talk At Stamp Club Meeting

Charles Wright will speak on "United States Commemorative Stamps from 1929 to 1933" at a meeting of the Appleton High school Philatelic society this afternoon at the school. The talk will be the third in a series on special observance stamps. A business meeting will follow the address.

Several members of the stamp club have ordered mint stamps from the federal philatelic agency at Washington. Clement Ketchum and Edward Radtke are co-sponsors of the club.

Dim Lights for Safety

That a robin seen this morning by Mrs. H. Melby, 113 W. Hancock street, near her home seems to have no trouble getting along despite the lateness of the season. The bird, which had it followed the way of nature, would have gone to a warmer climate sometime back, spurned bread crumbs tossed to it. It preferred to scratch in the dead leaves not covered by snow near the foundation of the home.

SCHOMMER FUNERAL SERVICE (M. C. SCHOMMER & SONS, INC.)

DEATHS

LOUIS GRUBBE, 68, former Appleton and Neenah resident, died Monday at a Milwaukee hospital after an illness of five weeks. The body was brought to Neenah last night and taken to the Sorensen Funeral home. Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the funeral home with the Rev. E. Reim, pastor of Trinity Lutheran church, in charge. Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

He came to Neenah from Germany 60 years ago and worked as an express company. He left Neenah 20 years ago and worked as an express agent at Appleton, Ripon and Waupun before going to Milwaukee.

Survivors are 10 nieces: Mrs. Emma Burmeister, Mrs. Flora Jacobs, both of Appleton; Mrs. Hattie Fromm, Louise Rabe, Neenah; Mrs. Mary Fitzgibbons, and Mrs. Fred Rasmussen, Menasha; Mrs. Flora Hens and Mrs. Mimmie Riedhauser, Neenah; Miss Meta Rabe, Green Bay; and Mrs. Flora Gottlieb, Kansas City. Mo.; seven nephews, Albert Krutz, Louis Krutz, Charles Krutz, Jr., Arthur Rabe all of Neenah; Arthur Krutz, Oshkosh; August Ziegert and Henry Ziegert, both of Menasha.

Relief, Welfare Council To Give Christmas Aid

Appleton Relief and Welfare council at a meeting yesterday afternoon made plans to aid in spreading Christmas cheer among the city's poor. An appropriation of $200 was made to the affiliated auxiliaries to buy foodstuffs and articles for Christmas baskets which will be distributed. A $50 appropriation was made to purchase candy and oranges to be distributed with toys now being repaired by the Ili-Y clubs of the Y. M. C. A.

Push Search for Men Who Stole From Stores

Search for the burglars who broke into several business establishments in Black Creek and Seymour during the last week was being continued today by county sheriff's officers and police. The series of burglaries started last week when the R. H. Gehrke and Co. Hardware store, Black Creek, and the Leo J. Kahnt Shoe store, Seymour, were entered. Merchandise valued at $350 was taken. Early yesterday morning the G. F. Ruch Hardware store, Black Creek, was entered and a radio valued at $150 was stolen.

3 Utilities Authorized To Build Rural Lines

Madison—(P)—The public service commission authorized three utilities today to build rural electric lines in areas where the state rural electrification office waived objections.

The areas are, Lake Superior District Power company; town of Marengo, Ashland county; Midland Public Service Company, town of Johnson, Marathon county; Wisconsin Michigan Power company, towns of Saxeville and Bloomfield, Waushara county.

$200 was made to the affiliated auxiliaries to buy foodstuffs and articles for Christmas baskets which will be distributed. A $50 appropriation was made to purchase candy and oranges to be distributed with toys now being repaired by the Ili-Y clubs of the Y. M. C. A.

North Western Amends Its Plan To Reorganize

Makes Sharp Cuts in Capitalization and Fixed Charges

Washington—(P)—The management of the Chicago and North Western Railway company amended its plan of reorganization today, making sharp reductions in capitalization and fixed charges.

Other major changes included in the amendment filed with the Interstate commerce commission related to treatment of preferred and common stockholders. Under the revised plan, preferred stockholders would receive one share of new stock for two shares now held and common stockholders one share for four. The original plan proposed share for share for preferred and one for two for common.

The new plan would provide a total capitalization of $470,767,288, compared with approximately $550,000,000 in the first plan. Fixed charges were given as $2,612,390, a reduction of about $4,000,000.

"Many Changes"

The management said "many changes in the political and economic situation" have occurred since the filing of the original plan June 10, 1936, which will increase the railroad's operations for 1938 by more than $8,000,000 as compared with 1936.

Two Autos Damaged in Crash at Stephenville

Automobiles driven by W. R. Laasch, Seymour, and Charles E. Harrison, Briggs hotel, Appleton, were damaged in a collision at Stephenville about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, according to a report of Charles Steidl, county motorcycle officer. Laasch pulled from a curb to go south on Highway 76 and Harrison was travelling in the same direction when the crash occurred. The Laasch machine was damaged on the left side and the Harrison car on the right side.

Union to Consider Proposed Agreement Of Canning Company

New London—An agreement will be drawn by the Hamilton and Sons Canning company and submitted to officials of the striking Cannery Factory local 1107 for consideration, according to an arrangement reached at a meeting of both parties with state labor relations board at Wau-paca.

A hearing in the labor controversy which has kept the plant closed since Nov. 23 was held before Chairman Voyta Wrabetz and Herman Rausch of the state labor relations board.

The canning company was represented by Henry Hamilton, president, and C. H. Cashin, Stevens Point attorney. The union affiliation and the new local formed by the striking employees were represented by Robert McFarlin and Ellis Hunter, outside organizers, Henry Hoag, Allen Herter, Art Smith and Alvin Schaefer.

Rural Electric Plant In Operation by Feb. 1

Neillsville—(P)—Wallace J. Landry, secretary-treasurer of the Clark Electric cooperative, said today the electric plant, which is to supply service to 2,300 farms, will not be ready to operate until Feb. 1.

Landry said a delay in completion of the central power plant at Chippewa Falls is responsible for holding up the inauguration of the inauguration of the organization, described as the largest rural electrification unit in the United States.

Predict 50 Will be Killed in Traffic Accidents by Jan. 1

64 Persons Died in State Highway Wrecks During Holidays Last Year

P. C. Madison Bureau

Madison — Tragedy, bleak and dismal tragedy in the form of sudden death is going to darken the Yuletide festivities in more than 50 Wisconsin homes before Jan. 1 the state highway commission's highway safety department predicted today.

The commission's prediction was not a vague guess. It is backed up by the accident experience in recent years. Unless, Wisconsin's citizens have learned better driving habits since last year, at least 50 residents of the state, now cheerfully preparing for a merry Christmas, will be killed in traffic accidents on highways and city streets before the close of the holiday season.

Last year 64 persons were killed, and as many families bereaved, in traffic accidents in Wisconsin between December 18, when Christmas travel started, and January 4, the first Monday of the new year.

Among them was one death in Outagamie county, besides 10 injuries in a total of 13 accidents.

In 31 counties last year some family had the joy of the holiday season blotted out by the death of a loved one in a traffic tragedy, the highway safety department said.

"Hospitals, wonderful institutions of mercy, nevertheless are lacking in the cheery atmosphere always associated with home at Christmas time," the department observed.

"Christmas is a time of the year when full enjoyment of the season comes from family reunions, family dinners, and exchange of gifts. Don't let an automobile accident take you from your family circle this Christmas," the department warned. "It is better to stop for a few seconds at an arterial, than to stop for hours at a hospital."

Appleton Men Will Attend Tax Clinic

Four Appleton men will attend a tax clinic to be held by the Certified Public Accountants Association Thursday at Milwaukee. They are Carl J. Beecher, E. A. Dettman, Willard Schenck and Raymond Pusch, all members of the Appleton C. P. A.

Speakers at the session will include: Fred E. Sammond and Fred Staples, Milwaukee; H. D. Kuenitz, Madison; and Stephan J. McMahon, Milwaukee.

A meeting of the northern chapter of the C. P. A. was held at Oshkosh Monday night. Appleton men who attended were Franz Larson, Al Nowak and the four mentioned above.

Dim Lights for Safety

Dimming of lights on highways during the holiday season is being urged by the highway safety department.

February, 1937: Roosevelt Proposes Revision of Court

BY VOLTA TORREY
New York—(17)—Once upon a time in February, 1937, President Roosevelt proposed to douse the Supreme Court in a fountain of youth. Overnight, surrealism, child brides, the stork derby, Dr. Sarg's dueling, and a string of appalling airplane accidents were forgotten. Parents borrowed children's schoolbooks to brush up on U. S. history for a "constitutional crisis." And "Nine Old Men" became a best seller.

Congressmen got so much mail they couldn't bother with Secretary Wallace's new ever-normal-granary notion, or Senator Wagner's slum-clearance clamor, or the White House reorganization hopes. Democrats sang, "Good Night, My Love," and Republicans rejoiced in private.

"I'd rather be right than agree with the President," trumpeted Nebraska's Senator Burke, elected as a New Dealer.

And Montana's veteran, progressive, Democratic Senator, Wheeler, let it be known he could see nothing sound, progressive or democratic about letting the President name a new judge every time one who has served a decade passed his 70th birthday.

Sitters Ordered Up
But Arizona's Ex-Cowboy Ashurst, senate judiciary committee chairman, vaulted to the Roosevelt side of the fence and Arkansas' 64-year-old Joe Robinson rallied the New Deal's quivering forces for the new attack.

Only John L. Lewis has something as news-worthy. A judge gave his Flint, Mich., sitters 24 hours to get up and get out or be fined $15,000,000. On they sat, beards getting bushier, while Governor Murphy named the floor between CIO and General Motors confabs.

Even before an agreement to negotiate had cleared the auto plants, Lewis was dickering with the coal industry and conferring behind the scenes with "big steel's" bosses on a truce that CIO hailed as "the greatest story in the history of the American labor movement."

And Lewis promised to have Chrysler and Ford bargaining, too, by Christmas.

Labor Murder
Sitting became stylish. A Detroit boss joined his employees in the sport. New York boys squatted on a night-club floor, protesting parental early-to-bed rules.

Even the month's murder mystery was shrouded by labor strife: Norman Redwood, sandhogs' union manager, was slain after trouble with Sam Rosoff, Gotham's millionaire ditch digger, and another union.

"War's Horror Reaches Peak in Mad Flight From Malaga," a headline read. Fascists cried, "Malaga today, Madrid tomorrow!" Victory seemed so certain that Germany and Italy, after seven months' haggling, agreed to help quarantine Spain.

Besides, Mussolini just then had to turn around and shake his fist once more at Ethiopia; natives were tossing pineapples.

And Britannia, perking up as the coronation approached, prepared to regain rule of the waves by starting a $7,500,000,000 rearmament program. The London metal exchange had its "maddest day since 1914."

Sit-Downers Rise and Parade
Celebration ends the 44-day General Motors strike.

A Premier Prays
A black storm swept America's dust bowl, but—
"My stocks are all going up again," an old lady told a Wall Street broker. "Is that a bad sign?"
In Japan, soaring prices heightened friction between politicians and militarists. A new premier General Senjuro Hayashi, sought guidance by praying to dead warriors' spirits.

In China, harassed by drought and desperados, Nanking officials announced their 10-year war with Chinese communists was over.

Tomorrow: March
V. F. W. Elect Volkman, Tornow as New Trustees
Fred Volkman and Irwin Tornow were elected trustees at a meeting of the Harvey Pierre Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Monday night at Eagles hall.

Volkman will hold his post for 18 months and Tornow will fill the unexpired term of Robert Olson who resigned. A report on the recent auto show sponsored by the post was given by Armin Schuerle, treasurer of the building and activity fund.

The post voted to cooperate with the auxiliary in distribution of Christmas baskets to needy families of the post and to members who are in hospitals at the present time.

Job Office Reports 132 Placements in November
The Appleton office of the Wisconsin State Employment Service made 132 placements during November, according to F. R. Gehrke, manager. The office covers Outagamie, Waupaca and Shawano counties.

When this month started, the office had 2,879 persons on file, 2,132 of them men and 747 women. The number of re-interviews, during November, reached 2,718. Unemployment compensation forms filled out last month numbered 2,329.

Library Gets New Children's Books

The Book of Wild Pets Among Volumes Added For Youngsters

"The Book of Wild Pets," by Clifford B. Moore, is one of the newer books for children placed on the shelves of the children's department at the Appleton Public Library this week, according to Miss Dorothy Kotkosky, children's librarian.

The book, which is of interest to adults as well as children, answers many questions on care of wild pets. Contained in the book are many notes in identification and life habits of animals. Moore is biologist in charge of the Trailside museum in Springfield, Mass. There are over 300 illustrations in the book.

Another book of interest to boys is "Front Page Story," by Robert Van Gelder. The book gives an accurate picture of the workings of a modern newspaper, including ethics and news values. It is the story of a cub reporter who holds the clue to an important murder, which happened to be his first major assignment.

Other books for children placed on the shelves this week include: "Out G-Men," by Crump; "A Place for Herself," by Daleau; "Calico," by Phillips; "Stained Gold," by Schult; "Scouting on Mystery Trail," by Smith; "The Circus Comes to School," by Tibbels; and "The Farm Beyond the Town," by White.

THE WEEK'S GAMES

Sunday—New London 31, Black Creek 19.

Tuesday—Town Taxis 39, Kaukauna 25.

Wednesday—Company D 35, Hortonville 14.

Wednesday—Little Chute at Seymour.

TOWN Taxis, Appleton, won their second straight game in the Outagamie County Basketball league and ousted Kaukauna Knights of Columbus from first place by a 39 to 33 score last night at Legion hall, Little Chute. In the other league contest last evening, Company D downed Hortonville, 35 to 14.

League play for the week will be completed this evening when Little Chute Legion invades Seymour where a booster game is to be staged. The teams won their first starts and indications are that a record crowd will be on hand to watch the tangle. Both teams will show tall men who handle the ball well.

Last night's game at Little Chute was close all the way with the Kaws coming from behind in the last couple minutes to tie the score at 23-23. Paul Jansen's right hand shot, Bob Lamers' bucket, tied up the score. The Taxis then called for time and when play was resumed Ehke broke away and sank two baskets in a row, the Kaw defense collapsed and Karel Zimmerman sneaked through and coined another bucket as the final whistle sounded.

Kaukauna was handicapped last night by injuries. Bud Lang suffered recurrence of a shoulder injury and McFadden was on the bench because of hurts. Added to that, Paul Jansen was delayed until the final quarter and then scored five points. The Taxis also ran into trouble. Elias and Ehke developed charley horses and had to leave the game and, although Ehke came back for his sensational scoring spurge, he was forced to leave again almost immediately.

Taxis Lead 8 to 5
The game opened with R. Berg getting a gift shot but the Taxis forged ahead to lead 8 to 5 at the quarter. In the second period Kaws looped a couple shots in a row to keep the Knights in the running but the Taxis had a 17 to 11 lead at the long rest.

In the third period Zimmerman and Hammer counted for the Taxis while J. Lamers, R. Berg and B. Lamers tallied for the Kaws and the score stood at 27 to 20 when the teams halted. The final quarter saw the Kaws spurt as P. Jansen replaced the injured Lang and soon they had the score at 33-21 after which the Taxis called time and then staged their kill.

A preliminary game saw the Hilberts defeat Little Chute Tasse Timmers, 26 to 14. Some of the Timmers didn't appear and other players had to be sought. Eickert, Schroeder and Thurlow led Hilbert while E. Versteeg, Vander Velden and N. Jansen played nice defensive ball and Peeters, H. DeBruin and Lucassen offensive ball for the Chuters.

GUARDS VICTORS

With that veteran old campaigner, Norman Kneip, making six field goals and a free throw for 13 points, Company D basketball team last night made its first league appearance at Army G and won a 35 to 14 victory over Hortonville. Next high scorer for the Guards was the other "old man" on the squad, Johnny Bauer, who registered four field goals.

The Guards took a 6 to 1 lead at the quarter and were in front 12 to 7 at the half. In the third stanza the score was 21 to 11 for the Guards. Hortonville had all kinds of trouble at the hoop and managed to score only five field goals, two going to Prentice. He also had a free throw for five points and tied with Poole, who had a field goal and three free shots, for point honors.

Next Sunday afternoon the Guards will show at New London in loop play and on Monday evening after drill will play a non league

THOMAS DOWN, BUT NEVER OUT

Harry Thomas, picked to test Max Schmeling in his comeback campaign, went down six times in the eighth round of their fight in New York, but was on his feet—and wanting to fight—when the technical knockout decision was awarded the German. Thomas is shown here on his knees, with the referee waving Schmeling away.

Chicago May be Scene of Louis, Schmeling Bout

Jacobs Says 'Big Spenders'
Were Not at Fight
In New York

NEW YORK — (AP) — Don't breathe it to a soul, but Chicago has the inside track on the championship brawl between Max Schmeling and Joe Louis next June, with Detroit running a spirited second.

Contrary to snap judgment, the near-capacity crowd that turned out to watch Schmeling paralyze Harry Thomas at the Garden night before last did not cause Promoter Mike Jacobs to turn any handsprings. Mike, on the contrary, looked over the assemblage with the bilious eye of an old ticket-scalper and decided New York positively would not do as a setting for his pugilistic pearl.

Few Jews Present
What Mike and his keen-eyed advisors noted was the fact that the well-heeled Jewish population, with only a few notable exceptions, was not at the ringside. The cloak-and-suiters who are notorious fight fans even had warned their employees not to watch Herr Schmeling, the Nazi fight under pain of having their salaries amputated.

"The big spenders were not there," admitted a prominent member of the Jacobs entourage. "Mike didn't know the faces at the ringside. Yorkville (New York's German section) was there in force to combat the anti-Nazi boycott and helped fill the place, but that didn't fool Mike. He couldn't hold the Schmeling-Louis fight here without the big spenders. Bet your bottom dollar that he won't try it."

Subsequently it was learned that Jacobs had been jiving with his Chicago associates during the day, lining things up. He wants to put Schmeling on in the Windy City in February or March as a "test case," and probably will.

Although he has fought 13 times in America, der Moxer never has appeared in Chicago. The tremendous German population within easy commuting distance of the loop figures to make him a natural in that neck of the woods.

Detroit was represented by the lone but persuasive voice of Jack Kearns, known to fame as the former manager of Jack Dempsey and Mickey Walker, who is doing better than all right for himself as a promoter in the automobile town. Schmeling will sail for home to night. Thomas was around with 11 stitches in his under lip, begging for another shot at the German.

Valley Pin Meet To Begin Jan. 15

250 Teams Expected to Enter Tourney at Fond du Lac

The third annual Fox River Valley Bowling tournament, to be held in Fond du Lac, is expected to have 250 entries before the closing date of Jan. 9.

Clarence Wirtz, Oshkosh, secretary of the tournament association, indicated recently that three more counties have been added to the list, making bowlers from 24 counties eligible to enter. These three are Langlade, Lincoln and Oneida counties.

Entries have already been made from 12 Sheboygan teams, 20 in Green Bay, 15 in Madison, 14 in Manitowoc, 10 in Appleton and 40 in Fond du Lac.

Regular Events
The tournament will be conducted like last year with regular team, two-man and singles events, and booster team event, the latter for those bowlers with team averages of less than 850.

The tournament will begin Jan. 15 and continue for one month, or longer if necessary. Bowling will be done on the weekends in great part, out-of-town teams being given the preference of Saturday and Sunday dates.

SIX-GAME SCHEDULE

Evanson, Ill. — Northwestern university will play a six-game spring training baseball schedule, starting April 11 at Louisiana State, Coach Burt Ingwersen announced today.

A total of 21 teams or crews, in nine separate sports, gained mention, including the collegiate football all-stars, who beat the Green Bay Packers at Chicago, and the Scandinavian sailors who did a masterful job aboard Ranger in Harold S. Vanderbilt's successful defense of the America's cup.

Viking Squash Team Defeats Men's Club

Lawrence college squash racquet team of Schermer, Rath, Chambers and Bergstrom won matches from members of the Lawrence Men's club in a recent meet staged at Alexander gymnasium. The feature match was the one which saw Schermer down Sperka of the Men's club and which went five games.

Schermer took the first, but Sperka won the next two, and then battled down to the last ditch before giving up the final two. The matches and scores follow:
Schermer (L) beat Sperka (M.C.) 15-9, 14-16, 14-16, 15-12, 15-10.
Rath (L) beat Reeve (M.C.) 15-10, 15-13, 18-16.
Chambers (L) beat Croxson (M.C.) 15-6, 15-8, 15-10.
Bergstrom (L) beat Robert Graef (M.C.) 15-6, 15-6, 12-15, 15-9.

Redskins and Bears May Show on Coast

Chicago—(AP)—Chicago's Bears apparently haven't seen enough of "Slingin' Sammy" Baugh and the Washington Redskins.

Owner George Halas of the Bears, and George P. Marshall, boss of the Redskins who scored a spectacular 28 to 21 triumph Sunday at Wrigley field in the National Professional Football league title battle, are considering a proposal to re-stage the thriller in Los Angeles next month.

Halas said however, he will lose interest in the proposition unless the Coliseum, with its seating capacity of more than 100,000, is leased, rather than Gilmore Stadium which holds 18,000, or Wrigley Field, the Los Angeles baseball park, which seats about 22,000.

SOMETHING NICE FOR THE TREE

Johnny Revolta and his wife already have something to hang on their Christmas tree, and it evidently looks mighty good to them. It's a check for $2,500 for winning first place in the Miami Biltmore golf tournament at Coral Gables, Fla. Johnny explained that Santa always remembers good golfers who hole 20-foot putts in pinches.

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

ONE of the principal topics of these days in state college circles is the attitude of the various Class A conferences and high schools on the question of the state tournament. Over a period of years it appears that Paul F. Neeverman, secretary of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association, has done everything in his power to get the Class A schools back into the meet and with no success.

Last month he announced that the W.I.A.A. would allow the two leading schools in the various Class A conferences, two from Milwaukee and other ranking Class A teams, to compete in the Madison meet without preliminary tournaments. But the suggestion has fallen on deaf ears. And I wonder why?

The W.I.A.A. is composed of state high schools including those in the Class A divisions. It sponsors a state track meet which the schools enter without any fuss and it sponsors a state insurance plan whereby schools recover part of their doctor and dentist bills resulting from sports. And, according to reliable authority, part of the tournament profits go into that insurance fund.

Perhaps the Class A schools are "mad" because the smaller schools dominate the association, I don't know. But the ways of educators, when they get into a huddle in their own back rooms, are strange.

Someone went back to Green Bay and told John Walter that I said publicly at the Marquette dinner at Neenah last week that John put all eleven members of the Green Bay East first team on his all-conference choice. I don't remember any such statement, but even if I did I only missed by three men—one lineman and two backs.

Lawrence college basketball team tackles St. Norbert college cagers at Alexander gymnasium Thursday night in the first varsity meeting of teams from the schools in several years. And I hope it marks the beginning of regular relations. There hasn't been much said about resumption of relations and I hope things go well tomorrow night.

However, both squads will be primed to the gunwales for a victory and if you attend the game you'll probably see one of the hardest fought contests of the season. Lawrence has played only one game so far and won while the Green Knights have lost two with the opposition in at least one case being pretty tough. It was Carroll college.

The program follows:
115 pounds: Tom Delwich versus Robert Sachschaale.
125 pounds: Charles Martinec versus Don Kassen.
135 pounds: Winner of semi-finals, Clay Hogan versus Glenn Onisner, and Jerome De Lisle versus Richard Talbot.
145 pounds: Gordon Thompson versus Vincent Mezna.
155 pounds: Roy Chisholm versus Ed Marquardt.
165 pounds: Ray Kramer versus Billy Roth.
175 pounds: Bill Kelly versus George Stauffer.
185 pounds: Don Perrin versus Bob Dudley.
195 pounds: Roy Senogles versus Steve Chivard.
Heavyweight: Nick Lee versus Chris Scheussler.

St. Mary's of Oshkosh

To Invade Little Chute

Little Chute — St. John High school cagers will attempt to add to their string of victories when they meet St. Mary's High school of Oshkosh at the St. John gymnasium Friday night.

The invaders boast a strong lineup and have a victory over St. Joseph High school of Marinette which invaded Little Chute Wednesday, Dec. 22, for a conference game.

A boxing program is being arranged for Monday night between winners of the last bouts and members of the varsity boxing team.

After the workout last night, Chandler said he was encouraged. His chief difficulty will be in locating reserves. Cafone, a utility man, undoubtedly will get first call.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES

Green Bay West at Fond du Lac.

Appleton at Sheboygan.

Manitowoc at Green Bay East.

APPLETON High school cagers last night went through a lengthy drill on fundamentals and free throws as they prepared for Friday's trip to Sheboygan in Valley conference play. And, remembering last year's famous jaunt to the lake shore city, the Terrors are hoping for good weather and a good bus. Last year the team arrived in Sheboygan only a few minutes before game time after being detained along the road a couple times.

Winners over Fond du Lac last Friday night here in a thrilling overtime encounter, the Terrors are hopeful of adding Sheboygan to their list of victims. The Chairs were stopped by Green Bay West's fast aggregation last Friday and Appleton feels that it must do as well or better if it is to rate in the race.

Appleton was slated to scrimmage Menasha last evening but the Bluejays called off the workout and so the boys had to battle among themselves. Glenn Bowers received a little extra coaching during the evening on dribbling.

Didn't Show Much
Sheboygan didn't show much against West last week, but when that was because it was so good or Sheboygan not so good remains to be seen. The Chairs got two points in the first quarter, two more in the second, seven in the third and two in the fourth. Laack, forward, was high point man with two buckets and two free throws. One feature of the Chair offense will be remedied this week, however. The lake shore boys won't be missing another 12 of 15 free shots as they did last week.

In the other games this week, Green Bay East, which burned up the court last week against St. Norbert and scored 50 points, will get its first Valley test against Manitowoc, and Green Bay West will invade Fond du Lac. Oshkosh is idle this week in Valley play.

Coach Shields of the Appleton squad has announced that a 2-day trip into the Wisconsin river valley during the Christmas holidays has been cut to a single day. The Terrors were to have helped Stevens Point open a new gym during the holidays and then play Antigo the next night. The dedication is off, however, so the Terrors will play at Antigo only on Dec. 30.

Handicap Hilltoppers
Against Badgers

Milwaukee—Marquette university's hopes for a second victory in the return game with the University of Wisconsin basketball team here Saturday took a sudden drop today when both Erwin Graf and Glenn Adams, forwards, were found on the disabled list.

Coach Bill Chandler does not expect to be able to use either man. Adams was taken to a hospital yesterday, ill with intestinal influenza. Graf has developed a back injury.

Two sophomores were drafted to fill the gaps. Bob Deneen, of Harvard, Ill., who has seen service in all Marquette games to date, will be at one forward berth. Ralph Arnsden, 6-foot, 4-inch Oak Park, Ill. youth, will go to center and Paul Sokody, the Elgin, Ill. senior, will shift from center to forward.

Dave Quabius and George Hesik at the guards round out the team. After the workout last night, Chandler said he was encouraged. His chief difficulty will be in locating reserves. Cafone, a utility man, undoubtedly will get first call.

BERTHA KOLITSCH rolled games of 237 and 217, finishing with a 589 series, to turn in the best individual bowling at Elks alleys last night, but her team, Penney's, lost to Adler Brau in the Elks Ladies League. H. Glasnap with a 202 game and G. Koerner with games of 190, 190 and 187 and a 567 series were standouts for the winning leggers.

Led by Louise Currie who whacked games of 198 and 195, ringing up a 532 series, H. Welton who hit a 208, and L. Lueders who scored a 213, the Polka Dots swept their match with Lutz Coolerators, chalk-ing up 955 for high game score and 2,547 for match. E. Wassmann had a 185 game and M. Hantschel a 463 series for the Coolerators.

D. Ebben smashed games of 208 and 185, reaching a 535 series, M. Griesbach hit 210 and H. Miller 191 as the Elks outbowed Copper Kettle two out of three. M. Rosebaugh scored games of 198 and 189 and a 565 series and L. Mueller rolled 201 for the Kettle leggers.

L. Nibert led Elly's Beauty Shop to a 2-game win over Sunnyside Floral, hitting games of 195 and 190 and a 562 series. L. Uetzmann had 491 for the Florals best series.

L. Cowan had a 186 game and 527 series as Hopfenberger Brothers won two from Pettibon's, paced by H. Kunitz with a 493, J. Freude with 189 and M. Tilly with 185.

A 202 game turned in by I. Keller and a 477 series rolled by L. Sager were standouts in the Greenen's scoring as they took two in their match with O. R. Kiehn Co., led by H. Mignon's 491 series.

M. Ingenthron had 198 and 532, M. Harlowe 204 and J. Caviel 185 as Hamm & Son won two from August Brandt Company, headed by A. Hartzheim with a 463 series.

K. Engler shot a 199 game and 517 series and M. Limpert a 194 game as Log Mill won two from Woolworth's. L. Bliek turned in games of 191 and 222 and a 557 series and M. Gengler a 196 for Woolworth's.

H. Natoro turned in a 193 game and 533 series as Ulrich's Tavern won two from Fashion Shop, paced by L. Erdman with a 188 game and E. Schultdt with a 227 game and 509 series.

Schedule Battles in Catholic boys League

Menasha — Only one round is scheduled this week in the Catholic Bay conference basketball race. Local games for Friday afternoon include St. John at St. Margaret Mary and Holy Name, Kimberly, at St. Patrick. Although St. John of Little Chute was scheduled to play at St. Mary, Menasha, the game was played at Little Chute last night because of a conflict of activities in the St. Mary gym.

Other league games for Friday are Holy Cross, Kaukauna, at St. Joseph, Appleton, and St. Therese, Appleton, at St. Mary, Appleton. St. Mary, Kaukauna, drew a bye.

Class Teams to Meet for High School Cage Title

The interclass basketball championship of Appleton High school will be decided today when teams representing each of the classes clash tonight in the school gymnasium. The sophomores will meet the juniors in the first battle and the winner will play the senior team for the school title. Following the play-off, a game may be arranged between the title holders and a faculty team.

Evans, Hinkle Get Posts On Pro All-Star Eleven

WASHINGTON, The National Pro Champion, placed three men on the 1937 All-League team selected by vote of the ten coaches of the National Football league it was announced today. Seven players who made last year's honor eleven retained places on this year's team, while two of the four newcomers were first year men in the professional ranks.

The Washington stars who dominated the balloting this year were Turk Edwards, who was selected at tackle for the fourth year since 1932; Cliff Battles, halfback who was chosen last year and in 1933 and who led the ground gainers this season with 674 yards, the second highest total in league history; and "Slings" Sammy Baugh, freshman halfback recruited from T. C. U. who set a new league record with 81 completed passes this year.

Baugh was tied for first team halfback with Ernie Caddell, Detroit, with 21 points, but Baugh also was tied for second team quarterback with Ed Danowski, New York Giants.

Stydahar Gets 43 Points

The largest vote this year went to Joe Stydahar, Bears tackle who received 43 points, three more than Earl Dutch Clark, player-coach of Detroit at quarterback, and Edwards at tackle. Stydahar was on the second team last year. Clark, who made first team quarterback for the sixth year since 1931—he missed only in 1935 when the coaches at Colorado College—didn't vote for himself thereby depriving himself of five more points and leading Stydahar for the most points.

A new record for consecutive years on the first team was made by Mel Hein, New York Giants ace center. He received 39 points to gain the pivot post for the fifth straight season. Hein was a former All-American center at Washington State. Incidentally, Edwards and Hein were standing at Washington State in '31 and '30 respectively.

Green Bay players were voted two places on the 1937 honor team. Lon Evans, at guard, and Clarke Hinkle, at fullback, duplicated their performances which made them the best men in the circuit at these positions in 1936 also.

George Musso, 265 pound guard with the Bears, made the first team at that position after making the 1936 team at tackle. The Bears, with Musso and Stydahar, tied Green Bay for second place for most players on the first eleven.

Hewitt, Tinsley Ends

End positions went to Bill Hewitt, Philadelphia Eagles transfer from the Bears, and Gaynell Tinsley, Chicago Cardinals sensational freshman from L. S. U. Hewitt, formerly of Michigan U. also was chosen last year and 1933 and 1934. Tinsley, in his first season of professional football, caught 36 passes for 675 yards and set a new yardage mark in this department.

Hutson, Green Bay ace, gave way to Tinsley on the first team, but was chosen on the second team at end. Other men who made the first eleven in 1936 but were relegated to the second team this year were Ernie Smith, Green Bay tackle, and Tuffy Leemans, New York halfback.

Two players, Ed Danowski and Johnny Del Isola of the Giants, made the second team at quarterback and guard, respectively, though both failed to make first or second team last season. Ed Widseth, former Minnesota star tackle, now also with the Giants, was the only other first year player who made either the first or second eleven in addition to Baugh and Tinsley. Widseth was tackle on the second eleven.

WATERPROOFING FABRICS AND LEATHERS

By Dillon Wallace

WATERPROOFED clothing is never completely waterproof unless it is rubberized. Ordinary clothing may, however, be made water repellent by home treatment and rendered protective against rain, other than heavy down-pours, or against long exposure to a steady falling rain and for ordinary purpose this is sufficient. Even in the heaviest shower the water-proofed suit will protect the wearer from a complete wetting. It will generally absorb moisture only at points where the rain can run off readily, as on the shoulders, and perhaps in the seams. This applies to woollens as well as cotton fabrics.

Wool as it comes from the sheep contains a fatty substance of unpleasant odor known as lanolin. Lanolin retains all the water-proof qualities of raw suit, but with odor removed. It may be used in waterproofing woolen clothing and will make a thorough job of it. The clothing thus waterproofed will not only be free from odor, but there will be no change in color, texture or weight of the garment. Even the buttons may be left on without fear of discoloration or other injury.

Lanolin may be had from the druggist in two forms, anhydrous lanolin which is free from water and hydrous lanolin to which water has been added. It is the anhydrous lanolin that we utilize in our waterproofing process.

The solution is prepared at the proportion of 3 ounces of lanolin to one gallon of benzine. In order that it may mix well with the benzine, the lanolin should first be dissolved in the least amount of chloroform necessary. The druggist from whom it is purchased will do this. Add it to the benzine and stir the solution well.

The garment to be waterproofed should be completely submerged in the solution and permitted to remain here for 4 or 5 minutes until every thread and seam is thoroughly saturated. When this is accomplished, remove it and squeeze out the surplus fluid, but do not wring it. Pull it into its normal shape and spread it flat, turning it occasionally. If hung upon a line, the fluid will drain to the bottom, and in this case it should be reversed frequently. Great caution should be observed in handling the solution because of the highly inflammable quality of benzine and its fumes. It is unsafe to handle it in the proximity of fire. However, the garments when perfectly dry, and evaporation completed, will be quite as free from inflammability as before treatment.

Cotton garments may be made water repellent by an alum-sugar of lead process, but only closely woven fabrics, such as khaki and similar cloths are adaptable.

Dissolve one-half pound of powdered alum in 2 quarts of boiling rain water, and when the alum is dissolved add to the solution 2 gallons of cold rain water. In another container dissolve one-half pound sugar of lead in 2 quarts of boiling rain water, and when dissolved add 2 gallons of cold rain water. Success depends upon the use of soft water, free from any mineral or chemical content, and rain water is therefore designated.

Place the fabric in the above solution, taking care that it is completely immersed, and permit it to soak for 5 or 6 hours. Remove and lightly squeeze out the surplus fluid. Immerse in the sugar of lead solution in similar manner, permitting it to remain for 5 or 6 hours. Remove and squeeze out the surplus fluid as previously. Hang to dry, or spread, as in the case of woollens.

Chick Meehan Leaves Manhattan Grid Post

New York—(7)—Manhattan college, after six seasons in which Chick Meehan promoted its football team from preliminary boys to feature attractions, started a search for a successor to the redoubtable Chick today.

Meehan, after 17 years as head coach at Syracuse, New York university and finally Manhattan, announced last night he had resigned to devote all his time to business.

Meehan has been almost continuously associated with football since he became varsity quarterback at Syracuse in 1915.

Mary Watson in Finals In Shuffleboard Meet

Mary Watson went into the finals in the Appleton High school girls' shuffleboard tournament yesterday by defeating Alice Vait.

Ebel Meehan and JoAnn Wassenberg will meet in the semifinals today as a result of victories over Anita Selig and Doris Wiese respectively. Eva Merkel defeated Marian Long yesterday and will meet Florence Stadler in the semifinals today.

Third round matches are being played today in the doubles tournament. Both meets will be finished this week.

Mentor Laments Frequent Changes In Cage Rulings

Charges Elimination of Center Jump Penalizes Good Teams

BY TOBY WIAIT

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(7)—George S. E. Keogan, whose 14-year basketball coaching record of 773 at the University of Notre Dame lends considerable weight to his words, declared today, "Rule changes of the last five years have hurt the game."

"There have been too many changes in the first place," he said in an interview. "Basketball will never become stabilized with uniform officiating and uniform interpretation of the rules unless the rules are left alone long enough for all sections to level off on interpretations."

Minnesota Graduate

Keogan is a University of Minnesota graduate who gave up pulling teeth to drill young athletes on the fine points of the "hoop and hardwood" sport. His all-time record up to the present season—including service at Valparaiso, Allegheny college, Central High school of La Crosse, Wis., and St. Thomas of St. Paul—shows 347 victories, 78 defeats and a tie, for an 816 percent average.

Keogan is convinced the new rule eliminating the center jump "penalizes" the good teams, since they "are forced to give up the ball after they have scored."

"Supposing the stronger of two teams is a little off in its basketball shooting early in a game," he suggested. "Under the old rule it might, by its aggressiveness, control the ball the majority of the game and still win."

"But if it is missing shots, losing an even percentage of the rebounds and losing the ball after making its shots, it may easily lose to an inferior team. Or a close game may be settled in the final minutes more on the new rule than on the skill of the winning team."

"The rule helps weaker teams. It will result in closer scores and in more upsets."

Kimberly Club in Win Over 'Bridgers And Bergstrom "5"

Regulars Rally in Third And Fourth Periods To Cop, 30-24

KIMBERLY — Kimberly Club defeated St. Mary's of Stockbridge, 30 to 24, and the reserves won over Bergstrom, Menasha, 24 to 15, at the clubhouse Tuesday evening.

The Papermakers, trailing at the half, set a fast and furious pace in the third and fourth quarters to defeat the Saints. With C. Vander Velden warming up as the game progressed, the Papermakers led at the quarter 7 to 5 but Stockbridge, with Henauer playing bang up ball, led at the half 13 to 12.

The second half saw C. Vander Velden putting the Clubbers in the lead, immediately followed with baskets by Albers and Hofkins, giving the local squad the edge at the end of the third quarter, 17 to 14.

The last quarter saw C. Vander Velden garner three free throws and four field goals, coupled with buckets by Hofkins and Albers to give the Papermakers a safe lead as the game ended.

The Club reserves defeated Bergstroms in the preliminary, 24 to 15. The reserves led 13 to 8 at the quarter and had the visitors 19 to 11 at the half. Van Eperen was high scorer, making four buckets and a gift shot to keep his team in the lead.

BASKETBALL
By CHARLES R. (CHICK) DAVIES
Duquesne University Coach

COOPERATION IS ESSENTIAL IN DEFENSIVE COURT PLAY
Each Man Should Play Own Opponent, But Must Be Ready to Guard Fast-Breaking Offense

DUQUESNE's team during the years 1932-3-4 was a great offensive club. Averaging 13 points per game the boys were not content to rest upon their scoring laurels alone, for their defensive record was as brilliant. This group possessed extraordinary basketball finesse and was drilled enough in defensive tactics to realize that the old axiom, "the best defense is a strong offense" does not alone hold in basketball. Both phases of play are essential to a successful team's make-up.

During their freshman year the boys average 51 points a game to the opposition's 18 markers in 11 encounters. The highest tally made by an opponent was 30 points and the lowest 8 points. In their varsity career the players rarely yielded more than 30 points per game to opposing aggregations.

Playing an offensive man not possessing the ball, the defense backs up with arms extended horizontally on both sides. This serves to avoid contacting a defensive teammate. When both the defensive player and the offensive man advance toward the basket, the former player has his back to the hoop. Under the net the defensive man, with a half pivot, maneuvers himself in front of his opponent. He is now prepared to break up a pass to the offensive man who is stationed under the cords and at the same time can keep his eye on the ball.

This last situation is the only instance that permits an opponent to get between the defense and the basket.

DEFENSIVE FUNDAMENTALS

DEFENSIVE MAN, WITH HAND ALTO TO SHOULDER, SHOULD STAY READY TO PIVOT IN EITHER DIRECTION.

UNDER THE BASKET DEFENSIVE MAN MAKES A HALF PIVOT IN FRONT OF OPPONENT—THIS PERMITS HIM TO BREAK UP PASS AND KEEP EYE ON THE BALL.

Usually the big club is perfecting offensive maneuvers so that the yearlings receive ample opportunity to brush up on their defense.

Stay Between Man, Basket

There are certain defensive fundamentals that must be remembered and practised during these skirmishes. When the play is away from the basket the defensive men stay farther away from the advancing opponents. As the play moves nearer the hoop the defensive men play closer to their opponents. In this maneuver the byword is: Stay between your man and the basket.

The defensive members point to their opponents in order to avoid confusion when the offense breaks quickly. Thus, if the break is so quick that a defensive player is caught flat-footed by the offense a teammate can pick up the loose offensive man. In turn the man caught flat-footed picks up his teammate's opponent. This changing of men is known as a switch.

End Recession by Better Planning, New Dealers Say

Put Blame on Way Business Stocked After Marking Up Prices

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — Enough time has elapsed now since the stock market break in October and the first panicky feelings about the business recession to form an impression of what President Roosevelt and his administration think about it.

The business world may say that it's a "Roosevelt depression," which means, in brief, that Roosevelt policies brought the recession, and, conversely, a revision of those policies can bring an upswing in business, but if the business men think they have sold that idea to the administration they are much mistaken.

It took a little while for the administration to get its bearings after the first shock that followed the rather precipitate decline in stock market prices and in the various indices that reflect current business activity, but now it may be said the president and his associates have crystallized their thinking into definite lines. They are no longer frightened and feel the answer lies in better instead of less "planning."

Naturally when an administration viewpoint crystallizes, it is then expressed in various ways. Anybody who reads carefully the speeches being made by Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture, Attorney General Cummings and Assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson and also Governor Eccles of the Federal Reserve board can see in clear outline just what the administration thinks about the recession and what it may have in mind to do about it.

First of all, the different agencies of the government seem to feel that they can place the blame for the recession on the way business marked up prices early this year and stocked up on goods at higher prices without taking into account consumer resistance. From such a premise, the administration reasons that there was an absence of competition and too much private price-fixing. This is the signal for more "trust busting," namely, the filing of more anti-trust suits and considerable public speech-making on the subject of monopolies.

Some of the realists, such as Secretary Wallace, have not hesitated to point out that there is too much economic power wielded by groups in their own interest. This touches the vital problem of labor unions' demands as well as corporate power. Mr. Wallace puts it this way:

"Even more important than the effect of technology are the actions of highly organized groups equipped with great bargaining power which have been entrusted to them by the government. Among these are the corporations, labor unions, and farm organizations. These great groups all too often try to increase their profits, wages or prices without regard to the public welfare; all too often they overlap their hand and bring about either shortage or an unbalanced abundance which is equally destructive."

This is the nearest any administration spokesman has come to putting the blame on organization of labor's demands, though Governor Eccles deals with this delicate point in his speech this week on the causes of the recession. He says of the course of events since last spring:

"Among the factors contributing to the upsurge in costs, prices and inventory buying were the bonus payments coming on top of already heavy government expenditures and giving a sharp additional impetus to consumer buying. The organizing campaign of labor, together with the drive for higher wages and shorter hours, added to expectations of higher prices."

"The rearmament program in various countries contributed to the general inflationary sentiment. A sellers' market developed and widespread advantage was taken of it to increase prices. Various important sections of industry which had not added to their productive capacity in the preceding years found themselves unable to promise quick delivery leading to still further piling up of orders and higher prices. The prices of various internationally-controlled raw materials skyrocketed while bond prices declined."

What to do about it? Mr. Eccles hints at some form of control. First, he says, "It could only have been the absence of competition that permitted building costs to soar on the low volume of building that took place last spring; it is only the absence of competition that can explain the maintenance of fixed prices and wage rates when the volume of activity declines sharply."

Administration's Idea

Some idea of what the administration may have in mind may be gathered from this significant paragraph in the same address by the governor of the Federal Reserve board:

"How are we to achieve and maintain full employment if private groups and organizations raise prices and costs whenever increased demand appears, although there is still an abundance of idle and unused manpower, plant facilities and raw materials? Does this necessitate steady increases in consumer buying power through deficit spending? How long can we pursue such a course? Are we to attempt to return to a truly competitive laissez faire economy? If not, are the alternatives facing organizations of capital and labor, either self-government in the public interest or increased regulation in the public interest?"

Mr. Eccles hopes it will be the former alternative, but immediately says "a return to laissez faire" is not possible and remarks that the "development of the industrial process itself has created larger units and brought into being various forms of organization of both capital and labor." The nearest approach to a suggestion of administration policy lies in Mr. Eccles' recommendation that thought must be given to "the best form of organization" for capital and labor "which will best further the public interest" and which "will insure an adequate representation of the public interest involved in price, wage and production policies."

In other words, it's a matter of voluntary control by labor and capital acting together, or else there will be more governmental intervention and more government regulation. This is but another way of saying that the economic machine, having gotten out of balance last spring, cannot be brought into continuous balance except by the hand of government working with the large economic groups and more or less guiding or directing their action.

The administration unquestionably feels that the dip in the business curve is temporary and that what it has in mind to do, especially in housing and in forcing more competition will be helpful, though, to be sure, what may be happening concurrently is that labor of its own accord will be less aggressive in the use of its economic power and business men will be less inclined to force prices up when there is no economic justification.

Some of this would be very constructive, indeed, if the government could also find a way to diminish its part of the burden—taxes—and if governmental policies could be worked out with much more clarity and definiteness so that anticipation of labor troubles and other vicissitudes would not cause these sudden anticipations of high prices and a panicky attitude that make business cancel orders and throw workmen out of employment. Mr. Roosevelt has had a lot to do with the basic causes of the recession, but it cannot be overlooked that organized groups of capital and labor have each gone their separate ways believing that there was no ceiling to the price level or to the heights the consumer would go in his purchases irrespective of price.

Social Items

Kaukauna — The Women's Catholic Order of Foresters will hold its annual Christmas party tonight at the home of Mrs. Fred Mayer. Gifts will be exchanged and a program and refreshments will follow. The Fraternal Order of Eagles, Kaukauna Aerie No. 1416, will meet at 8 o'clock tonight at Odd Fellow hall.

A Christmas party was held yesterday afternoon by the Kaukauna Federated Woman's club at the home of Mrs. J. B. Delbridge. Toys were collected to distribute to the needy at Christmas. The "Life of Dickens," was presented by Mrs. Carl Runtz, and the singing of Christmas carols led by Mrs. G. C. Sanderson. A piano quartet, composed of Mesdames Black, McAndrews, Sage and Mongin, gave several selections.

Rotary Ladies Will Attend Club Meeting

Kaukauna — The ladies of the members of the Kaukauna Rotary club will be guests at 6:30 tonight at a dinner and program at Hotel Kaukauna. The event takes the place of the usual noon meeting scheduled for today. H. D. Purdy, Appleton amateur magician, will perform at the affair. The committee in charge is composed of Rev. G. C. Sanderson, chairman, Dale E. Andrews and H. S. Cooke.

Kaukauna — The Little Chute Bottlers took two of three games from the Miller High Life to remain two games in front of the Commercial bowling league last night at the Schell alleys. Leo King's 529 series on counts of 153, 169 and 208 led the winners, while Ed Matchette's games of 171, 171 and 189 were high for the Miller High Life.

The Pantry Lunch took two of three from the Post Office quintet to go into a tie for third place with the Gertz Tavern five. Bill Bedat cracked the pins for a series of 536 on hits of 182, 179 and 175 to lead the Lunchers, with H. Treptow's series of 532 on games of 179, 198 and 175 being high score for the Post Office team.

J. McMorro hit 554 on counts of 175, 163 and 214 to lead the Gertz Tavern five to three straight wins over the Gustmans. A Kronforst's 497 led the Gustmans.

In the final match of the evening the Mellow Brews took three straight from the Hopfenspergers. William Jirikovic hit 526 on games of 153, 191 and 182 to lead the winners, and Carl Hilgenberg hit 173, 173 and 184 for a series of 540 to lead the losers.

High School Cage Squad Drills for Tilt at Shawano

Kaukauna Players Working to Improve Marksmanship

Kaukauna — With only two practice sessions remaining before the game with Shawano on the Indians' home court Friday night, Coach Paul E. Little's cagers went through an intensive workout yesterday afternoon in the high school gymnasium.

Special attention was paid to improving the shooting of the cagers, which, while fair in the opener against St. Mary's of Menasha, fell off badly in the first conference encounter against the Menasha Bluejays here last Friday night. Statistics compiled under the direction of Coach Little showed that the team was only slightly over half as accurate in the second game of the season as in the first. Against St. Mary's the Kavs took 55 shots at the basket and connected with 14 of them for a percentage of 25. Against the Bluejays four nights later the team took 44 shots and connected with only seven for a percentage of 16.

Practice Free Shots

Another department of play in which Little is working for improvement is free throwing. Each player on the first squad is shooting 50 every night in an effort to improve the collective mark of 13 out of 36 in actual games. After the squad made only seven out of 18 against St. Mary's, Little warned them that their lack of proficiency in making gift tosses would result in more than one defeat, and his prophesy came true when the Kavs missed 12 charity shots against the Bluejays, when six of them would have given them a win.

Offensive measures came in for their share of attention yesterday as the first string of Alger, Peterson, Giordana, Lambie and Vaneevnhoven practiced working the ball in for scores. Opposing them was a combination of Grogan, Meitner, Bloch, Bivolis and Skenderow, with McCarty replacing Grogan.

Kaukauna's leading scorer so far this season is Cliff Vaneevnhoven, only returning regular from last year, who from his forward position has counted eight field goals

Business Women's Club Holds Dinner, Christmas Program

Harrison Larson and Dorothy Alft gave readings; Janet Hess, Lucille West, Carol Lucdtke, Paul Gurnee, Joan McCarthy, Rosemary Stegeman, Joan Leddy, Mary Schatzka, Leatrice Arps, Patsy Charlesworth, Mickey Ruperty, Dorothy Williams, Gloria Geske, Bernice Kappell and Marion Brouche, under the direction of Vesper Chamberlin, presented a series of dances. Hazel Thatcher and Mathilda Kilian were in charge of arrangements.

Holy Cross Boy Scouts To Hold Party Tonight

Kaukauna — Kaukauna boy scouts, Holy Cross Troop 31, will hold a Christmas party tonight in the church auditorium. The entertainment committee is composed of Glen Vandehey, Donald Ymaling and Robert Steenhoff, with Thomas Bowers, Robert Elling, and Mark Romensko on the refreshments committee. Walter Dixon, valley council scout executive, has been invited to the party.

and three free throws for 10 points. Vaneevnhoven is closely followed by Bill Peterson, another forward, who has counted 18 points on seven baskets and four gift tosses.

Urges Support of 'Good Cheer' Plan

Mayor Nelson Issues Proclamation Asking Participation in Movement

Kaukauna — A proclamation urging public support of the Christmas good cheer movement was issued today by Mayor Lewis F. Nelson. "Christmas is meant to be a universal holiday," Nelson said, in urging Kaukauna citizens to cooperate in this year's program, "and a period of joy and happiness for all."

"Kaukauna is a city that has been almost singularly blessed," Nelson continued, "yet there are homes where the material things are few, where there is discouragement because of this fact. . . . For this reason the Christmas good cheer movement has been organized."

"If the movement meets its objective, it will have done much toward spreading Christmas cheer to the homes and family circles where it is most needed."

In conclusion, Nelson urged Kaukauna citizens to do their part "giving freely as good sports of Kaukauna."

POWER GRIPS

Give yourself and the family freedom from worry about getting through mud and snow with the car this winter! That's a Christmas gift anyone can appreciate. Power Grips' big, round knobs make chains unnecessary—pull far better than chains, because the whole surface of the tire is gripping surface! The knobs are self-cleaning, too. They "snap" out mud and snow as the tire rolls. And you get clean, powerful traction both forward and backward. Save the cost of chains!

Mayor Says WPA Will Hire More Men at Menasha

Work Will be Resumed on Seventh Street Sewer Project, Council Told

Menasha—The addition of 45 to 50 Menasha men to WPA work here within the month will help remedy the relief situation, Mayor W. E. Held told the city council at an adjourned meeting last night. The Mayor was at Green Bay Tuesday to confer with WPA officials and secured the promise of additional men on WPA, the use of a digger for the Brighton Beach project, $1,800 in materials for a revised park project and $300 for sewer pipe for the Seventh street sewer.

Workers must first register for relief even though they do not actually receive relief, Mayor Held stressed, before they will be placed on the WPA projects. Twenty men are to be placed on the work projects by Thursday, another 14 will be put to work by next Monday, and from 10 to 15 more will be assigned with several days.

The mayor also attempted to secure a WPA project for skating rinks while at Green Bay. However, the delay in setting up the project would limit their usefulness. Removing 50 men from the relief roles, the council felt would leave sufficient funds in the relief budget to set up the rinks as a work relief project similar to the Brighton Beach project now carried on by the city.

Six Skating Rinks Alderman Sauter introduced a resolution authorizing the street department, working with the park department, to set up six rinks immediately. The rinks will be located on lower Lake Butte des Morts, on high school site, on Fourth street school site, Smith park, Gilbert's pond and the extreme west end of the Third ward on the Island. Alderman Grode said that the Gilbert Paper company was donating the use of its pond and that the water and light commission had strung lights. All the city must do is keep the ice free from snow. Lights will be strung at the other projects by the water and light department.

The WPA has authorized use of a machine digger on the Brighton Beach project for 120 hours. If the hours are used up, a credit of $4.90 an hour for use on other projects will be given.

Following completion of the Brighton Beach project, work will be resumed on the Seventh street sewer project, which has been idle for some time. Work on Seventh street will probably begin by Feb. 1 with a larger crew than ever before, according to Mayor Held. It is expected that the Brighton Beach project will be completed by Jan. 15.

Revise Park Project The council authorized the mayor and city clerk to revise the approved WPA project for Jefferson park to include all parks. With $1,800 in materials and all labor costs furnished by the WPA and salvaged material owned by the city from the high school fire, park board requests can be granted without any cash outlay by the city.

The project will be revised to include repair of the band pavilion at Smith park and construction of a field house at the Fifth ward park. Alderman Grode suggested that the building at the high school site now being used as a band room be moved to the Fifth ward park after Jan. 3. The project will be set up in that manner.

Upon motion of Alderman Grode, the engineering department was authorized to draw up, and the mayor and city clerk authorized to execute, a project to restore the municipal building for use as a garage following removal of vocational school equipment. Bricks salvaged from the old high school will be used in the project.

Heller Named Head Of Menasha Masons

Menasha—H. A. Heller, was elected worshipful master of John A. Bryan lodge, F. A. M., following a 6:30 dinner at the lodge rooms Monday night. Heller, who had been acting as worshipful master, succeeds Clarence Elmgren, who is ill.

Other officers are: Oscar Peterson, senior warden; Irvin Merrill, junior warden; Frank Heckrodt, treasurer; W. E. McReady, secretary; and Knud Ellingboe, trustee for three years.

Third degree work followed the election. Appointive officers have not been named nor has the time of installation been set.

Twin City Florists at Meeting of Association

Menasha—Menasha and Neenah florists were represented at the Fox River Valley Florists association meeting Tuesday evening in the Miles company greenhouse in Oshkosh. Walter Baurendt, secretary of the association, William Graser and Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Linsdale were Menasha florists who attended. William Kraemer, Bernard Kauth and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shoman represented the Neenah florist houses.

George Ball, Glen Ellyn, Ill., was guest speaker.

Ruppenthal Will Referee Wrestling Bouts at Menasha

Menasha—Duke Ruppenthal, Tigerton, will be back for Twin City mat fans tonight with new laurels. He has been in Canada for the last six months where he won the Canadian middleweight crown and defended it successfully 12 times.

Ruppenthal will not appear as a wrestler, but as the referee. However, the way some of the matches have been going and the tendencies of some of the referees to get into the spirit of things, Ruppenthal may have to call on his ring abilities.

The pairings for tonight's card, which starts at 8:30 at S. A. Cook armory, include Earl Otto versus Pete Pancroft in the opener; Earl Steele versus Tarzan Krause in the semi, and Rowdy Poca against Louie Kodrick in the windup. The last two bouts will be for two out of three falls.

To add to the novelty, amateur musicians will entertain fans between falls.

Winter Sports Program Mapped At High School

Birdsall Heads Boxers; Christianson Captains Wrestlers

Neenah—Extensive plans for a Neenah high school winter interscholastic athletic program were formulated at a meeting of more than 100 boys Monday afternoon at the high school. Principal John Holzman reported today.

The high school will sponsor wrestling, boxing, hockey, and skating teams again this year, and Edsel Birdsall was elected captain of the boxing crew, while Emory Christianson was named captain of the wrestling team.

Wrestlers and boxers will practice several afternoons each week in the Roosevelt gymnasium. Last year they trained in Wesley hall which was destroyed by fire in November. George Christoph will coach the matmen, while Harvey Leamen will coach the boxers.

Reed is Good Neenah High school has piled up an enviable record in wrestling during the four years it has participated in the sport, losing only one match to Washington High school of Milwaukee. Mr. Holzman said that if the wrestlers turn in as good a performance this year they will compete in the first state high school tournament at Ripon in March.

The boys at the meeting who indicated they would box are Harvey Koerwitz, William Haas, John Speidel, Robert Kloss, Raymond Skatte, Lyle Lillierap, Roman Zimmerman, Evald Hansen, Vernon Schultz, Dudley Young, Harold Bunker, Henry Brichard.

Those who will take part in wrestling are Roger Doughty, Leonard Christianson, Harvey Koerwitz, Ervin Bonar, Richard Rucci, Robert Caron, Elmer Lashua, Julius Christiansen, James Anderson, Richard Meyer, Stillman Dieckhoff, Evald Hansen, Eugene Volck, Francis Lee, William Overly, Ivan Maynor, Clifford Bunker, Willis Clark, Alvin Ackerman, John Palmer, Roy Wiberg, Alvin Staffeld, Douglas Nelson, John Speidel, Donald Harrington, William Russell, Edmund Lowe, Edward Laumer, Jean Larsen, Harrison Staffeld, Robert Kloss, Howard Craddock, Lyle Lillierap, Raymond Skatte, Chester Cloutiers, Roman Zimmerman, Donald Nelson, George MacDonald and Henry Brichard.

Skaters to Organize The hockey and skating teams will organize this week and elect captains. Matches with Green Bay, Menasha, Appleton and other schools near Neenah will be scheduled for the hockey team, while either a winter ice carnival or an interscholastic ice tournament will be held in January. It is also planned to hold the carnival or tournament on Lake Winnebago instead of the Columbia park rink.

Automobile Damaged in Minor Traffic Accident

Menasha—An automobile driven by Leo Diskowski, 611 Twelfth street, Oshkosh, was damaged about 10 o'clock this morning when it was involved in an accident with a truck driven by Harold Jaspersen, 219 High street. Neenah Jaspersen was going south on Third street and stopped for an automatic traffic signal, and Diskowski was going in the same direction when the machines collided.

Schedule Three Union Meetings at Menasha

Menasha—Three local union meetings have been scheduled at the Twin City Union club for the balance of the week. Strange Pulp and Sulphate local No. 273 meets tonight while Brewers' local No. 378 will meet Thursday evening. On Friday night Burnstein local No. 19765 will meet.

400 Persons Hear Menasha High School Band Concert

Menasha—A crowd of nearly 400 persons filled Butte des Morts gym last night for the annual Christmas concert of the Menasha High school band under the direction of L. E. Kraft. For an hour and a half the band held the attention of the audience as it presented marches, medleys, novelties and difficult compositions.

Franklyn LeFevre, vocal music supervisor, in Menasha public schools, sang "Oh, Holy Night" by Adams. He was called back for an encore and sang "Birthdays of a King" by Handel.

The concert marked the first public use of the cathedral chimes presented to the band by Menasha High School Band Mothers. The chimes were played by Lamar Foth, who did very well, particularly in view of the short time he had to practice.

Most popular with the audience last night were the medleys presented by the band. They included "Around the Christmas Tree," which opened with the ringing of bells, followed by numerous Christmas songs, the clock striking 12 and the sleigh ride home, "Children's March," a compilation of songs youngsters sing, and "Victor Herbert's Favorites."

One of the most ambitious attempts of the band was "Headlines," a modern rhapsody by Carlton Colby, which reflected in musical idiom a cross section of life from the standpoint of a press room. The band presented a good interpretation of the difficult selection. Sound effects were very well handled.

C. Vanderhyden Rolls 704 Series, 279-Pin High Game

Cut Down Meyers Oil Lead In Germania Circuit At Menasha

Menasha—C. Vanderhyden set the pace way above all other bowlers in the Germania league at the Hendy alleys last night when he rolled a game of 279 and additional lines of 200 and 225 for a 704 series. His total was well over 100 more than his nearest competitor.

Other high games in the league included W. Christensen, 203 and 200; J. Reimer, 217; T. Goss, 214; W. Stip, 216 and 201; A. Grassell, 205; A. Guyette, 207; W. Egan, 214 and 207; H. Reimer, 215; D. Mericle, 222; W. Reimer, 202; Gil Stadtmiller, 209; W. Beauderau, 205, and J. Oberweiser, 211.

High team series was by the Floral Center, 2,884 with a top game of 1,032. Second series honors went to the Alex Tavern with 2,724 while Bert and Bens had second high team game, 956.

Three teams closed in on the Meyers Oil when the league leaders won only one game from the Yankee Paper company. Bert and Bens, Kuester Shoe Shop and Club Tavern are all tied for second place, one game behind the leaders.

Results last night:

Menasha Jaces Inspect Sewage Disposal Plant

Menasha—Nearly 25 members of the Menasha Junior Chamber of Commerce made an inspection trip through the Twin Cities sewage disposal plant last night. The trip was one of a series through municipal plants and local factories planned by James Chapin. A short business meeting also was held.

The pamphlets deal with all current topics and contain information not generally in text books. This information is correlated with the work being done in the classes.

Map Program for Dedication of New Rural School

State Supervisor Will Give Address During Ceremonies

Neenah—The new Lakeview rural school in District No. 3, town of Neenah, located on the Lake Shore road, two miles south of Neenah, will be dedicated at 8 o'clock Friday night.

R. S. Ihlenfeldt, Madison, state supervisor, will be the principal speaker and will give the dedicatory address. Dr. Del Curtis, township resident, will be chairman of the ceremony.

The new school, a brick and steel structure, was erected last summer. Preliminary construction work started in May and continued through October although the building was complete enough to permit school opening Sept. 13.

Eva C. Monson, county superintendent of schools, will take part in the program, and the Rev. H. E. Mansfield, Allenville, will lead community singing. Vocal and instrumental music will be furnished by students of Neenah High school.

Will Present Flags The Neenah Woman's Relief corps will present two flags to the school, a silk one for the outdoor flagpole, and presentation will be made by Thad Sheerin, Neenah's only surviving veteran of the Civil war. Acceptance will be made by Robert Wilms, a seventh grade pupil.

A history of Lakeview school will be prepared and read by Mrs. Mary Muttart and her daughter, Miss Mary Muttart. All former teachers have been invited to the dedication program and a tour of inspection of the building will follow the exercises.

Miss Edna Kolodzik teaches the upper grades and Miss Norma Jones is instructor in the primary grades. The school has an enrollment of 37 of which 37 are boys and 20 girls.

St. Mary Students to Begin Vacation Dec. 22

Neenah—St. Mary High school will close for the holiday vacation after dismissal on next Wednesday and will resume session on Monday, Jan. 3. The St. Mary grades will close on Friday of this week and will open at the same time as the high school.

A Christmas play, with freshmen and sophomores chiefly in the cast, will be presented by St. Mary High school students. A matinee will be given Friday afternoon of this week while an evening performance will be given Sunday night in St. Mary school hall.

Get $14,970 as Share Of Motor Vehicle Tax

Neenah—City Treasurer W. H. Loechning today received a check from the state treasury department amounting to $14,970.45, which is equal to the 1930 personal property tax on automobiles kept in the city. The sum is 20 per cent of the net registration fees derived from motor vehicles customarily kept in the city.

Scene of Nativity Is Depicted With Lights

Menasha—The Nativity scene, annually depicted in outdoor illuminated decorations at the Laemmrich Funeral home, will be lighted for the first time tonight. Over 100 Christmas trees have been placed in the yard adjoining the funeral home and the crib and figures in the scene have been placed. The lighting tonight will be experimental and alterations may be made. The scene has attracted much attention in other years and visitors have come from great distances to view it.

Arrange Transfer Of Night Classes To New Building

Variety of Courses Will be Offered During Second Semester

Menasha—Classes in the Menasha evening school will be resumed for the second semester in the new school building at Seventh and Milwaukee streets Monday, Jan. 3. New equipment has been provided in most of the rooms and equipment salvaged from the old building will be moved into the new shops during the vacation period. A detailed schedule of the assignment of rooms for evening classes in their new quarters will be published at a later date.

New enrollments will be taken in the classes when the school opens after Christmas. New courses also will be offered provided 10 or more persons wish to enroll. Persons interested in new courses, especially typewriting, bookkeeping, and shorthand, may get in touch with S. E. Crockett, director of adult education, either by personal interview, phone or mail before the close of the Christmas vacation.

Civics Class Patterned After Wisconsin Senate

Neenah—The sophomore civics class of Neenah High school has become a veritable law-making body during its study of local, state and national governments, Harvey Leaman, instructor, reported today.

The class has been organized and modeled after the Wisconsin senate. The students have been studying the principles of government and attended several sessions of the Neenah city council. The class is divided, with students representing the various senatorial districts, and last Friday the "senators" held a primary and an election, naming Betty Borenz as "lieutenant governor" to preside.

Donald Raean, joint committee on finance; Donald Erdman, education and public welfare; Mathias Becker, agriculture and labor; Kenneth Redlin, legislature procedure; Bethel Bieser and John Heller, corporations and taxation; Ervin Boness, conservation; Leonard Christensen, highways; Rollin Riem, judiciary; Bernice Hren, state and local government.

The first regular session for discussion of bills were held Monday and today. The bills under consideration are: Unicameral legislature for Wisconsin, enlarged vocational education, schools, grand trunk highways to avoid large cities, elimination of grade crossings, new type of reform schools, a farm and dairy bill, conservation, luxury and cosmetic taxes.

elementary and advanced foods, elementary and advanced clothing, have been offered during the last semester which will close Thursday evening. The classes were conducted in the city library, barracks at the old high school site, Butte des Morts gym and city garage. Evening trade extension classes in cosmetology, barber science, and plumbing have been carried on in conjunction with the Neenah Vocational school.

UPON MOTION OF ALDERMAN OBERWEISER, the city council voted to bond the city treasurer for $100,000. The present bond will expire Dec. 31. The city attorney was instructed to investigate the law and the method of keeping city funds in the banks to determine the possibility of keeping the funds protected without having to pay the deposit charge levied by the state.

A bartender's license was granted by Jacob Scronowski.

WILL GO TO NEW YORK Neenah—Miss Ruth Chaimson, Neenah High school speech instructor, is planning to attend a national speech convention and national dramatic society convention at New York City from Dec. 28 to 31.

Civics Class Patterned After Wisconsin Senate

Neenah—The sophomore civics class of Neenah High school has become a veritable law-making body during its study of local, state and national governments, Harvey Leaman, instructor, reported today.

The class has been organized and modeled after the Wisconsin senate. The students have been studying the principles of government and attended several sessions of the Neenah city council. The class is divided, with students representing the various senatorial districts, and last Friday the "senators" held a primary and an election, naming Betty Borenz as "lieutenant governor" to preside.

Miss Borenz then selected the chairman of the various "senatorial" committees, as follows:

Donald Raean, joint committee on finance; Donald Erdman, education and public welfare; Mathias Becker, agriculture and labor; Kenneth Redlin, legislature procedure; Bethel Bieser and John Heller, corporations and taxation; Ervin Boness, conservation; Leonard Christensen, highways; Rollin Riem, judiciary; Bernice Hren, state and local government.

The first regular session for discussion of bills were held Monday and today. The bills under consideration are: Unicameral legislature for Wisconsin, enlarged vocational education, schools, grand trunk highways to avoid large cities, elimination of grade crossings, new type of reform schools, a farm and dairy bill, conservation, luxury and cosmetic taxes.

Declare Lower Sewer Charges

Menasha Council Establishes Rate on Four Installations

Menasha—A sewer assessment of 72 cents a foot was levied by the common council at its meeting at the city hall last night for sanitary sewer installed on Water street, Seventh street, Ninth street, and Mathewson street. The assessment was made on recommendation of the board of public works.

The assessment is lower than past charges because the work was done under a WPA grant. Material costs only were paid by the city while the labor expenses were paid by the government.

The engineer's department will prepare the sewer assessments to be levied against each property owner on these streets. The assessments then will be turned over to the city clerk and treasurer to be included in the 1938 tax receipts. Entering the special assessments and other charges will take at least a week before the tax receipts will be ready.

Will Go to New York

Neenah—Miss Ruth Chaimson, Neenah High school speech instructor, is planning to attend a national speech convention and national dramatic society convention at New York City from Dec. 28 to 31.

Apply Large Scale Methods To Reduce Building Costs

Neenah—Applying the same methods of large scale operations to the smaller field in the building industry in order to eliminate seasonal building is the aim of contractors today, according to Frank T. Durham, vice president of W. J. Durham Lumber company, Neenah.

Containing that the elimination of seasonal building is feasible and practical as well as desirable Durham pointed out that preventing cessation of construction during the winter months requires an intelligent study as well as intensive research in the winter building.

"Leveling off the cost of labor is one of the important factors in the elimination of seasonal building," the lumberman stated. He explained that by employing carpenters by the year, the cost of labor is reduced and more capable and efficient builders are available.

Public Must Aid

The public must cooperate in the drive to eliminate seasonal building, Durham pointed out. Large industries are able to continue construction throughout the year because operations are flexible and here is more than one building under construction at the same time, thus crews may be shifted, depending upon the progress of construction and weather conditions, without losing work.

With the elimination of seasonal building there will be no need for waste and a better product will be turned out, according to the contractor. He explained that although carpenters are not hurried on a job regardless of what time of the year it is, they know that there is more work to be done. By stretching the building time throughout the entire year, this pressure will be released on the companies as well as the employees.

Better working conditions today also are provided the carpenters. Although these craftsmen are accustomed to working out of doors during the winter and are able to stand cold weather up to a certain point, they are not able to withstand the dangers of drafts. When the outside of a building is erected, the structure is entirely enclosed and heat furnished.

Explains Choice Of Facts Offered At Bridge Hearing

MacArthur Reviews Evidence Submitted in Plea For New Span

Neenah—Disclosing why contention over Neenah's lone bridge spanning the Fox river on N. Commercial street was used as evidence during the recent public hearing by the state highway commission instead of the volume of traffic, A. S. MacArthur of the Neenah Advance association, explained to members of the Lions club Tuesday noon at the Valley Inn that the important traffic over the bridge would have had little or no effect upon the commissioners as the volume does not exceed the bridge's capacity.

Mr. MacArthur explained briefly the testimony presented during the public hearing, stressing the four congestion factors existing at the intersection of Wisconsin avenue and Commercial street in relation to the bridge, population density, congestion lanes, delivery truck alleys, railway switching and celebration.

In the city's appeal for a second bridge over the river, it was argued that there were more than 20,000 people in the square mile in the congestion area during business hours, he told the Lions.

Of the 12 traffic lanes through his area, there were three causing a congestion factor and these lanes can not be routed any other way without a second bridge. In this area there are 100 trucks traveling out of the alleys every hour, he testified and added that the right and switch trains crossing N. Commercial street are coordinated with industrial process. He added that the commissioners readily admitted the fifth congestion hazard which occurs during celebrations.

Children use the railroad bridge traveling to school from the N. Commercial street and he cited an incident which he observed himself of a boy hanging onto a train with the train pulling him and his bicycle across the bridge.

Twin City Girls Attend Christmas Parties at 'Y'

Neenah—Christmas parties are the featured activities at the Twin City Y. W. C. A. this week—with two Yuletide parties held Tuesday night and another to be held Friday night.

Twenty-four members of the A. Y. club attended a club affair last night with Mildred Bosma, Martha Juchfuss and Ethel Staylor in charge of the evening's entertainment. The program consisted of games and exchange of gifts. Club members also attended the forum lecture sponsored by the Menasha library prior to the party. During the business session the club voted to assist in sending a community delegate to the Cause and Cure of War conference at Washington, D. C. in January.

The girls in charge of the refreshments were Alice Herning, Nina Hopkins and Elsie Wieland. The committee in charge of program for January is composed of Alice Meyer, Hilda Foth and Margaret Ehnes. The Neenah and Professional Girls club also held a Christmas party last night at the Y. W. C. A. with Shirley Stadstad, Helen Graef

Clemans Reviews History of State In Forum Lecture

Oshkosh Professor Says Public Should Know More About Wisconsin

Menasha—Declaring that the story of the settlement of Wisconsin by various racial groups is unique in the world, Prof. E. A. Clemans, Oshkosh, told the story of a series of forum lectures at the Menasha library last night that "the heritage which is ours and the story of that settlement is something which Wisconsin people should know more about."

Prof. Clemans deplored the lack of knowledge, customs, history and literature of the offspring of those racial groups as he paid tribute to the coming together of representatives of nations of the world in a union of purposes and loyalty.

"There was but a mere handful of people in Wisconsin in 1832, most of them in settlements at Green Bay and Prairie du Chien. With the Blackhawk war, soldiers going through southern Wisconsin found it a beautiful park instead of the last word in desolation as they had supposed and settlers rushed in. Wisconsin population has increased regularly at a rate of 300,000 each 10 years."

French Cultured

"The French who settled at Green Bay were a cultured people and brought us certain characteristics, chief among them friendliness and loyalty. The Irish built our railroads and had more influence in state government than any other people with their flair for politics. They were keen for education, a fact evidenced in the establishment of the school in Manitowoc county by Daniel O'Shea early in the history of Wisconsin. From that school came some of the state's greatest men, judges, educators and newspaper men. Our first real migration came from New York and Vermont, the covered wagon group. In 1836, four out of every five persons in Wisconsin were from New York or New England. They brought us our language, our ideas of public schools, town meetings and public squares."

MOVIE STAR'S NAMESAKE

Arlington, Neb. —(AP)—Arlington residents have presented a new claim to distinction—that the town is the namesake of Arlington Brugh, better known to moviegoers as Robert Taylor.

Taylor's father lived here as a youth, they point out, and liked the town so well he named his son after it, although residing elsewhere at the time of the boy's birth.

Dr. Waples Says Priestley Betrays Liking for Americans in New Book

Neenah—Americans are not cheerful, they have no peace of mind; they are ruled by children; they achieve no artistry in living and their women are too aggressively feminine are some of the apologetic charges of J. B. Priestly against America in his book, "Midnight on the Desert," declared Dr. Dorothy Waples of Lawrence college, in a lecture at the Woman's Tuesday club meeting Tuesday afternoon in Neenah library. However, Dr. Waples said, he betrays his liking for us throughout the book.

Dr. Waples discussed the book in comparison with other times written about America, declaring that Priestly was more friendly to America than other writers, that he believed that America may have a civilization dawning if it would admit its collectivism and if it would become aware of the relation between human beings. Priestly is quick to point out however that he wouldn't like to live in America or be an American.

Priestly found New York subtly exciting but he couldn't sleep, his brain couldn't relax. He pitied American women who aside from the very difficult job they have, judging by advertisements in magazines, were "anxious, nervous, scratching only the surface of life."

He declared he could not understand the lack of art and music discussion, that American businessmen were dishonest, and that he hazards a guess that all this may be the result of America's restlessness and moving-spirit. He thought American homes had a temporary look that truck drivers and filling station attendants looked superior to Englishmen and probably would make American women better husbands than the pasty faced businessmen.

However, Priestly's chief interest is in America's startling greatness when it comes to engineering feats. In these things, he says, America is definitely out in front and other countries are following America where, but they are following them. Priestly pointed out the length of Boulder dam, "that gigantic structure of collective action, an assigned work of art." Priestly doesn't like collectivism in any sense and in his book, he plays with the idea of a social state where all persons will be given the necessities of life and the other luxuries will have to be worked for, the idea being that those who wish are free to be individuals. It is a kind of a collectivism that would produce individuals.

Dr. Waples discussed Priestly's treatise on the nature of time, the theory of immortality, religion and faith founded on a belief in the fourth, fifth and six dimensions. Like Proust, he wonders if it isn't true that people do not measure an experience itself but an experience remembered, released from a sense of time.

Jay Herbold was named worthy patron, Muriel Heller, associate matron, Hubert Sherman, associate patron; Mrs. Ruth Chandler, secretary; Mrs. Blanche Calder, treasurer; Mrs. Agnes Fitzgibbon, conductress; Mrs. Bess Weinberger, associate conductress; and Mrs. Chandler and Mrs. Gertrude Sawyer, trustees. There was a 6 o'clock covered dish supper and Christmas party Dec. 28 were completed.

Mrs. Otto Porath Of Neenah Killed By Furnace Gas

Husband and Daughter Overcome but Recover When House Is Cleared

Neenah—Mrs. Otto Porath, 47, 220 N. Lake street, died as the result of escaping gas from a furnace at her home Tuesday morning. Both her husband and their daughter, Anita, 18, were overcome but recovered when the home was cleared of the fumes.

After firemen had applied artificial respiration with an inhalator with no apparent effect, Mrs. Porath was taken to Theda Clark hospital about 11 o'clock where she was put into the "iron lung" but efforts to resuscitate her were futile. It is believed she was dead before arrival at the hospital.

The three people were found in the gas filled home by Mrs. Arthur Lloyd, a neighbor, about 10 o'clock in the morning. Mrs. Lloyd said she went over to the Porath home when she became alarmed over the lack of activity about the place. The Porath family had come to a member of the Lloyd family that they were ill the preceding night.

When Mrs. Lloyd entered the home Anita had collapsed on the kitchen floor, having made her way from her upstairs bedroom. Mr. and Mrs. Porath were in their bed when found. Their bedroom was on the first floor.

Porath died in a room, June 1, 1890. Mrs. Porath had been a resident of Appleton, Menasha and Neenah all her life. Survivors are her husband and one daughter.

Funeral services for Mrs. Porath will be held at Sorenson Funeral home at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon and burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery.

Remove Part of Vocal Cords to 'De-Bleat' Goats

Milk goats of the future will lack vocal cords, according to Dr. A. J. Durant, Professor of Veterinary Science at the University of Missouri.

After several months of experimenting, Dr. Durant, assisted by instructor Frank Oliver, discovered it is possible to eliminate a goat's bleat. The two men plan to publish a scientific paper on the operation soon.

The purpose of "de-bleating" is to secure peace and quiet. Elimination of the noisy nuisance will make town goats more desirable as many people prefer and need their milk for health purposes, Durant said.

Dr. Durant said that it was their purpose to make the operation a practical one that any veterinary could perform. The operation consists of giving the goat a local or general anesthesia and then removing part of the vocal cords. The goat seems to realize what has happened and makes no attempt to "baa" afterward.

Bathtub Trick Saves Child From Drowning

Fort Worth, Tex.—Four-year-old Don Smith perhaps owes his life to a trick he learned in the bathtub at home.

Playing around a pier where his parents were fishing, Don reached for a pole which had fallen into the water and tumbled head-first into 14 feet of water.

Heavy clothing and water-filled boots held the child on the bottom until Turney Estes jumped from his boat and brought him up. When Luchsinger this morning when he pleaded guilty to reckless driving on Highway 41 in the town of Menasha Dec. 12, Kaiser was arrested by Clarence Smith, Winnebago county patrolman, and his driver's license was automatically revoked.

I AM THE JEWELER

I am not a dealer in mere merchandise.

In me has been vested the handling of those things which, far plainer than words, bespeak love, affection, hope, understanding and appreciation of work well done.

I am the direct descendant of one of the most ancient, most honorable crafts the world has known. My trade ancestry dates back beyond the dim dawn of history. Prominent in every land, among every people and in every age will be found my fellow craftsmen.

Respected members of their communities they have aided in the fulfillment of a human desire, a human need second only to that for food and shelter.

It is my privilege to search all land and sea for those rare bits of beauty which Nature has provided to redeem in part the drabness of an all too forgetful and undemonstrative world.

My wares symbolize the betrothal, sanctify the marriage, add to the beauty of those who wear them, give dignity and grace to the function of eating and express affections which can be made known in no other way.

In me is vested the all-important task of perpetuating the finer things of life—of upholding the finest sentiments of the human race.

The Characters
Nina impulsively married David, trying to escape her intense love for her stepfather.
Richard, the charming, well-tailored stepfather, shamelessly talks of love to Nina.
Honey, Nina's gay, plump, youthful mother, is wild about Richard, her newly acquired husband.
David, a bright young auto salesman, adores Nina and strives to make her happy on his small salary.

Gossip About Richard
"Gad, Tony," Carl was saying to the man Leeds, newly returned from England, "what do you think of our young entry, eh? We've continued using the Brandywine blood, and imported, in addition, a number of fine bitches from England. Well, sir, I declare, I think we've developed a crossbred pack, uniform as to type, that is the equal of anything in this country!"
"I think you're right there, Carl," Tony Leeds was enthusiastic. "... Never seen anything like 'em!"

Richard, from the depth of his leather arm-chair asked: "What's the number of your young entry? ... about 14 couple?"
"Just ... and speaking of young entry," Carl beamed at David, "you should have seen young Day, here! Hester! There's a horseman for you!"
"I was--troubled, when you went out, Mr. Day. These friends of Carl's are a hard riding lot. I admire your courage."
"Oh, I was scared enough, sometimes, all right ... but Lord, I could get enthusiastic about the sport!"
Richard remarked, with a smile that his enthusiasm alone, had carried him over a good many obstacles already.
But David was ready for him. "Enthusiasm--or horsemanship, got over, didn't it?"
Everybody laughed.
Nina said: "I thought you were a goner, darling, at that last post and ..."

New York—(U)—Steel shares provided the backbone for a mild stock market today in which leaders, at their best, improved fractions to a point or more.

Aircraft and metal issues, active and higher earlier in the session, suffered from profit selling and ended below the day's best levels. Utilities and rails were narrow and not much sought after.

Transfers approximated 900,000 shares.

Conspicuous on the up side most of the day—there were recessions from best levels near the close—were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Inland, Steel, Chrysler, Boeing, Douglas Aircraft, Anaconda, American Smelting, International Nickel, Montgomery Ward, International Harvester, Johns Manville, Air Reduction, Santa Fe, Pullman, Du Pont, Texas Corp., Philip Morris, Dome Mines and Eastman Kodak.

New York Curb Stocks In Fractional Gains

New York—(U)—Curb stocks moved a shade higher today. Scattered switching to set up paper losses for income tax purposes served as a mild sales stimulant.

Up slightly near the final hour were American Gas and Electric, American Light and Traction, Cord Corp., Gulf Oil, Lake Shore Mines, Pan American Airways, Pittsburgh Plate Glass and Sherwin Williams.

Today's Market At a Glance

New York—(U)—Stocks steady; bonds mixed; government issues improve.

Foreign exchange steady; changes narrow.

Sugar quiet; steady spot market.

Chicago—Wheat steady; awaiting Argentine estimates.

Corn strong; large export purchases.

Cattle about steady.

Icy Weather Aids Livestock Prices

Curtained Receipts Result in Advance in Hog Quotations

Chicago—(U)—Although the wholesale and retail trade continued sluggish, a contraction in livestock receipts resulting partly from icy weather today brought an advance in hog prices. The early hog market was 10 to 15 cents higher but most of this upturn was lost later on swine scaling 225 pounds or more.

Most cattle sold on a steady basis with big killer representatives bidding lower for the bulk while a few loads of well finished beef animals got strong bids from order buyers. Fat lambs moved at near steady prices.

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

Chicago—(U. S. A.)—Hogs: 25,000 including 9,000 direct; early market 10-15 higher than Tuesday's average; advance mostly lost now on weights 225 lbs. up; top 140 lbs. for several loads averaging 160-185 lbs. bulk good and choice 150-200 lbs. 8.20-35; 210-250 lbs. 7.85-8.25; very little done on heavier butchers; most good packing sows 6.65-7.00; selected kindreds 6.00-7.15.

Cattle 7,000, calves 1,600; not much done on steers; largely steer run; rank and file about steady with killers going very slow; some big killers in bidding lower; few loads well finished yearlings and weighty steers strong on order; few account; such cattle turning at 9.75-11.00; latter price early but some held higher; stockers and feeders slow mainly because of icy weather; cleanup market on fed heifers steady to strong; cows scarce, strong to 25 higher; both bulls and vealers very scarce, firm to a little higher; bulls mainly 6.75 to 11.50; choice weighty vealers up to 11.50.

Sheep 5,000, including 200 direct; fat lambs opening slow; early bids around steady; good to choice native and fed western offerings bid 9.00-25; best held 9.35-50 and above; indications steady on sheep or 4.00 downward on native ewes.

ST. PAUL LIVESTOCK

South St. Paul—(U. S. A.)—Cattle 3,500; slaughter steers about steady, few sales 6.25-8.25; bids weak on fed heifers; best cows above 7.00; cows mostly steady; plain to good cows 4.50-5.50; low cutters and cutters largely 3.50-4.25; bulls weak; most bids 6.00-7.00; steers slow. Calves 3,000; vealers steady to weak; good to choice 7.50-9.00; good to choice 7.50-9.00; Hogs 15,000; run including 1,500 direct; fairly active to 10 higher than Tuesday's average; weights between 210-240 lbs. generally show-

Winnipeg Upturns Support Chicago Wheat Quotations

Traders Inclined to Await Argentine Government Crop Report

Chicago—(U)—Big upturns in quotations at Winnipeg lent firmness to the Chicago wheat market today, but gains were not well maintained.

Winnipeg wheat prices represented an advance of more than 9 cents a bushel since Monday. Surprising scarcity of contract grades of wheat in Canada were reported by Chicago traders, however, showed a disposition to await the Argentine government crop report due after today's close of trading here.

At the close, Chicago wheat futures were 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 up compared with yesterday's finish, May 92 1/2, July 87, corn 3 1/2 higher, May 59 1/2, July 60, and oats 1 1/2 advanced.

Gains, Losses Run Neck And Neck on Bond Market

New York—(U)—The bond market lacked a definite trend today. Fractional price changes were the rule, and the list went into the final hour with gains and losses about evenly divided.

Up a shade were Allegheny 5s of 1950, American and Foreign Power 5s, Columbia Gas and Electric 5s, and International Hydro Electric.

Lower were American Water Works 6s, Armour 4s, Texas Corp. 3 1/2s, and Northern Pacific 4s.

Two Freighters Fight Their Way Through Ice

Detroit—(U)—Two freighters, bound from Lake Erie ports to Detroit, were making tortuous progress today through the ice of the lower Detroit river which has held them since Monday. Both vessels are owned by the Nicholson Transit company of Detroit.

The James Watt was reported to have bucked its way for half a mile through the ice of the lower Livingstone channel and this morning was 600 feet ahead of the Followcraft, the second ice-bound vessel. Two tugs were attempting to open the channel.

Japs Ready to Go Even Further to Meet U.S. Demands

General Public Deeply Concerned Over Sinking of Panay

Tokio—(U)—Japan, already having apologized and offered indemnity for war-like attacks on the United States gunboat Panay and three American-owned steamers, was prepared today to go "even further if necessary" to meet the diplomatic emergency, government officials said.

As an additional gesture of regret, it was said, a national salute to the American flag and military honors for the Americans killed Sunday in the Yangtze river incident were under consideration.

The general public was deeply concerned, although the Japanese press published virtually nothing of the sentiment in Washington or the United States and refrained from editorial comment.

The newspapers, however, did print a long statement of the imperial headquarters, the highest Japanese military and naval organ, in which it was charged that three gunboats among the several vessels attacked by naval fliers fired on the Japanese warplanes when the Panay was sunk.

Aviators' Report

The headquarters statement declared that the Japanese airmen had reported the vessels "carried no flags" and that "many soldiers, apparently Chinese, were sighted aboard them."

The press also carried Foreign Minister Koki Hirota's note to United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew in which Japan tendered "sincere apologies" promised "indemnifications for all losses" and to "deal appropriately with those responsible for the incident" and announced "strict orders" had been issued to prevent a recurrence of the incident.

Competent observers said the Panay incident was a serious reversal for Japanese diplomacy which had been assiduously trying to cultivate the United States to present too solid a British-American front with regard to the Far East.

Fear U. S.-British Action

The turn of events on the troubled Yangtze brought Tokio's diplomats sharply face-to-face with a situation in which the United States and Britain were closely linked—for the British gunboats Ladybird and Bee also were attacked on Sunday.

The display of Japanese regret at the attack on the Panay and three Standard Oil steamers took turns which were strange to Occidental eyes.

A letter-to-the-editor writer proposed through the newspaper Nichi Nichi that the Japanese people raise a fund to build an exact duplicate of the Panay.

A delegation of seven school girls in their teens and their teacher visited Ambassador Grew to express sorrow.

Official Balks At Resignation In Tax Dispute

Lansing, Mich.—(U)—State Tax Commissioner Chester M. Martin said today Governor Frank Murphy had called for his resignation and that he had refused to quit "under fire."

The governor, following a conference with Martin in the executive office last night, announced that Martin has "promised to cooperate."

Martin insisted today that he had made "no promises."

"I told the governor that I would be ready to quit on Jan. 31 but that in the meantime I wanted a thorough investigation of the commission."

Martin, a Democrat who has quarrelled frequently with Murphy, said he planned to take a neutral attitude in the conflict between Melville B. McPherson, Republican whom the governor has sought to deposit as chairman and John N. Fe-

City Traffic Crippled

A thin rain in the wake of last night's heavy snowfall threw a film over city sidewalks and streets today, hampering and endangering traffic and making walking difficult.

Heavy trucks, unable to find footing, were stalled on inclines, passenger cars skidded on slippery pavement and Christmas shoppers stepped cautiously along walks and down curbs.

Starting this morning with a faint drizzle, the rain increased slightly early in the afternoon. Appleton's school children, hurrying out of the buildings at noon today, found that the moisture had left the snow "just right for packing" and the season's first snowfall bombardment ended in disappointment.

Large wet flakes drifted down on the city last night, piling up a 2-inch fall, according to charts at the Wisconsin Michigan Power company plant. For the 24-hour period ending at 9 o'clock this morning, the warmest temperature in the city was 31 and the coldest 19. At noon today the thermometer atop the Post-Crescent building registered 22.

Rain or snow is forecast for Appleton and vicinity tonight and tomorrow by the weatherman who says that Thursday's temperatures may be even warmer than today's.

Los Angeles reported a maximum of 74 yesterday, warmest in the nation. Pueblo, Colo., turned in the coldest reading, eight degrees above.

Injunction Proceedings

McPherson instituted injunction proceedings yesterday in an effort to retain the post.

Fegah, in a prepared statement that bristled with criticism of tax commission policies under McPherson, announced today he would renege 22 employees whom he discharged last week. He said he had chosen that course, following the signing of a show cause order by Circuit Judge Leola W. Carr, "to clarify the issue."

Razzle-Dazzle Atmosphere Rules in Government Oil Trial at Madison

BY GEORGE ZIELKE

Madison—(U)—Uncle Sam's anti-trust law case against a large segment of the oil industry, being tried before Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone and a jury, is the razzle-dazzle of lawsuits.

Courtroom spectators, like crowds watching the intricacies of modern football, have some trouble keeping their eyes on the ball— which in this case is the charge that 16 major oil companies conspired to raise and fix midwestern gasoline prices in 1935 and 1936.

The government took 16 boxes of documents from oil companies, files, and has produced a large quantity of them in court. The defense has brought in a model oil derrick and pumping rig that ran electrically; a model refinery, a wooden scaffold 12 feet tall to hold charts; charts in vivid colors, charts in drab colors; little charts and charts 12 feet wide.

Capacity Crowd

When the exhibits aren't attracting attention, the courtroom scene is enough to divert observers.

The oak-paneled room, with subdued lights, was meant to hold at most 200 persons. The startling lineup on Oct. 4 was so large that bailiffs couldn't admit spectators. There were 100 prospective jurors, nearly 75 lawyers, 40 defendants, including executives and relatives of big oil companies, and a dozen newspaper men in addition to court officers.

Now, as the trial draws toward its close, the spectators have a little more room. Some of the defendants have been freed, and some of their attorneys have gone home. But there still are nearly 60 lawyers in the room, from time to time, including nine at the government table.

Trouble With Names

Short-hand reporters work in 10-minute relays and have their difficulties keeping straight the names of all attorneys who present argument and objections or interpret questions. One government witness was cross-examined by 12 counsel.

Many a lawsuit has been referred to as a "legal battle," this one is more like a "legal war." Bitterness between opposing counsel crops out sporadically. Defense attorneys declare government prosecutors are trying to conceal from the jury facts concerning the NRA under which the oil industry operated at the time the alleged conspiracy is supposed to have begun.

Prosecutors scoff at any defense contention that the companies were amazed when they were indicted "for doing what the government wanted them to do," by offering statements the defendants had "the advice of the finest legal talent in the country."

U. S. Is Awaiting Direct Reply to Official Protest

He was suffering from exposure and went to a hospital.

Two other survivors of the sinking of the United States gunboat and a British naval officer arrived in Shanghai with Marshall on the Japanese plane. The Panay survivors arriving were: F. Hayden, Vice, Roanoke, Va., employee of the British American Tobacco company, and John L. Hodge, Panay fireman.

Flag Captain O'Donnell of the British Yangtze river patrol accompanied them. The officer had been wounded in the hand.

The United States gunboat Oahu and the British gunboat, Ladybird, conveyed by the Japanese gunboat Hozu, were steaming down the Yangtze toward Shanghai with most of the other survivors.

All foreigners involved in the incident, except three known dead, were reported safe and either aboard the vessels or ready to embark. The United States cruiser, Augusta listed 16 wounded in the tragedy. Other reports gave names of 2 more wounded.

Marshall brought to Shanghai the first detailed eye-witness account of what happened when the American gunboat was bombed and machine-gunned off Hoshien in the Yangtze 220 miles above here.

The first survivors to reach this city had made their way to Wuhu, despite bitter fighting in the area, for first aid at the American Missionary hospital.

Marshall said he had not seen Japanese launches machine-gun the Panay before she went down as reported by Colin MacDonald, London Times correspondent, another of the survivors.

The American writer explained, however, that he had got to the nearest Standard Oil vessel and aided in getting her underway, and that when the second ship was bombed he was busy helping launch sampan lifeboats.

Gunners at Post

MacDonald had declared in a brief wireless message to the Augusta that before the Panay was sunk, crews of two Japanese launches machine-gunned the American gunboat and boarded her for inspection.

"The three survivors said the Panay's machine-guns remained at their posts, firing at the attacking Japanese launches and planes, until they were forced to flee for their lives from the sinking vessel."

Vines, who was wounded, was rushed to a hospital. Hodge went to a hotel.

Japanese authorities, meanwhile, announced they had no reports of the machine-gunning episode and declined to comment.

The Augusta announced that the Oahu and the Ladybird were expected to reach Shanghai tomorrow night.

Still "Mopping Up"

The Japanese still were "mopping up" in fallen Nanking, and treating Chinese forces due for new fighting across the Yangtze from the former capital. General Iwane Matsui, commander of Japanese forces, was making Nanking his headquarters to direct the Japanese push into China's interior.

(President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull awaited a direct reply to the United States note demanding reparation for the Panay sinking and a guarantee of no further "unlawful interference" with American rights.)

Japanese government officials said that Japan, already having apologized and offered indemnity, was prepared to go "even further if necessary" to meet the diplomatic emergency.

(The British cabinet was considering whether to reinforce its 10,000 fleet to protect its empire and at the same time was considering a strong note of protest to Tokyo against Sunday's attack on British gunboats.)

Known Dead

The known dead in the Yangtze incident were Charles L. Fegah, Ocean Beach, Calif., Panay storekeeper; Captain C. H. Carson, commander of one of three oil company ships, bombed in the attack; and Sandro Samra, Italian newspaper man.

In addition, a Chinese crew member of one of the vessels and an unidentified seaman had been reported killed. It was believed at first the unidentified seaman might have been the "stranger" who had been killed as a "stranger" on the Panay.

Some suffered fractured limbs. Others gunshot wounds, and the injuries of the remainder were described in terse messages merely as "wounds."

Before the receipt of word that the Oahu and Ladybird were on their way back to Shanghai, officials had feared that their delay in leaving had been due to new outbreaks of fighting in the middle Yangtze area.

HOW TO WIN

1. Read the ads in this Christmas "Gift Selector" carefully. In the two open spaces (top part) of the illustrated cartoon figures above—write, type or print what you think the little figure and Santa are saying to each other (not over fifteen words in each space). A new cartoon picture will appear daily in the space above until Christmas.
2. The conversation must contain the name of an advertiser whose ad appears here, and something about any gift that he advertises. Only ads in this "Gift Selector" and the names of the advertisers are considered.
3. Yes, it is necessary to clip out the cartoon illustration to fill in the words you wish to write in the two open spaces (balloons). Do not color or decorate. The cleverness and originality in the way you word the conversation is what counts.
4. The first two daily prizes are in the form of $1 gift orders on advertisers herein, and theatre tickets to the other five winners.
5. Yes, you can submit as many entries daily as you wish but each must be written in the space of a separate cartoon picture. Send same to Judges of Christmas "Gift Selector" c/o Post-Crescent.

Roy Martin Is New Worshipful Master Of Masonic Lodge

Clintonville — Roy Martin was elected worshipful master of Clintonville lodge No. 197 F. and A. M. at its meeting Monday evening. He will succeed Clarence Quall as head of the lodge. Dr. Irving Auld was chosen senior warden, and Myron Rand, junior warden. Those re-elected to their positions were: A. V. Chamberlin, secretary; D. J. Rohrer, treasurer, and Frank Gause, trustee. A number of offices remain to be filled by appointment. Besides the election of officers, there was work in the Master Mason degree and the evening closed with the serving of a luncheon.

The Junior Woman's club held a Christmas party Monday evening at the Odd Fellow hall. A 630 covered-dish supper was followed by a variety of games. Gifts were also exchanged. The supper committee included Mesdames Donald Olen, Leo Polzin, Clarence Quall, Clarence Piehl, Lloyd Pinkowsky; Erwin Pinkowsky and Ben Rathke. Those in charge of the entertainment were Mesdames Harold Heuer, Robert Olen and William Schauder, Jr.

The American Legion Auxiliary and the junior auxiliary will hold their annual Christmas party at 8 o'clock Monday evening at the Knights of Columbus hall. Gifts will be exchanged.

The Rev. and Mrs. Emil Stubenvoll, Sr., expect to leave Monday for Roseville, Calif., where they will spend the holidays and the remainder of the winter with their daughter, Mrs. Martin Ehnke and family. The Rev. and Mrs. Ehnke and children left here about six years ago for California. Mr. Ehnke had charge of a Lutheran church in South DuPont for a number of years, but found it necessary to give up the ministry because of ill health. The Stubenvolls plan to return to their home in this city about April 1. Mr. Stubenvoll is also a retired Lutheran minister, having served congregations at Regina and Pella for over forty years. Mrs. Elmer Lang was hostess to 12 guests at a Christmas party Tuesday afternoon at her home on N. Main street. Bridge was played at three tables, after which a luncheon was served. Honors went to Mrs. Harry Lang, Mrs. Reuben Lendved and Mrs. Harold Olk.

Hollywood News And Gossip

BY ROBBIN COONS
Hollywood—The good old agricultural principle of "crop diversification"—applied to movies—is lengthening the life span of the stars.

They used to say that a movie star's "average life" was five years, and it was true, today, it's nearer 10. And more if you count that pre-starring period in every star's life during which the spotlight, and the coin, is almost as bright.

Clark Gable's been prominent, although not always a star, nearly seven years. Constance Bennett, not counting her early silent venture, has been a star in talkies for eight. Ronald Colman made his first hit 14 years ago. Claudette Colbert, after two featured years, began to click big in 1932. Gary Cooper was already big in the silents, achieved starring status eight years ago. Carole Lombard, Ginger Rogers, Irene Dunne, Norma Shearer, Fredric March, Wally Berry, Warner Baxter—the majority of today's stars, were stars or at least well known in 1930. Misses Lombard, Rogers and Dunne did not hit starring stride until later, but the real movie fans knew them seven years ago.

That doesn't add up to an average of eight years, but most of those mentioned have several years to go before they can be considered "washed up." And it's diversification that does it.

Teams Grow Stable
Irene Dunne does a comedy like "The Awful Truth" but pretty soon she'll be in something serious again. Gable's unfortunate appearance in "Parnell" whets the fan appetite for a tidbit like "Saragato." Gary Cooper does an heroic tour de force in "The Plainsman," which contrasts sharply with "Mr. Deeds" and "The Adventures of Marco Polo."

There's more of the same going on in the teaming business. Separating Astaire and Rogers, time; letting Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy appear opposite other singing sweethearts; spacing the William Powell-Myrna Loy duets—that's diversification. In the silents the team of Dorothy Mackaill and Jack Muhlhall was overworked and there isn't any Muhlhall-Mackaill team any more.

Maybe the producers are more discerning about such matters nowadays. Maybe the stars are more insistent on proper vehicles, although stars are notoriously poor as wagon choosers. But more likely it's just the talkies—opening new fields for talent and personality. Or the public, which seems to have a broader view of Hollywood and its people than it used to have, and doesn't insist on its favorites sticking in the same old grooves.

Hint to Dietrich
From all of which, it comes to me suddenly, Marlene Dietrich might take a hint. On arrival in New York recently she was quoted as to her intention to make one more picture in Hollywood—"then I am through." She'll make pictures abroad, she said.

But what came to me suddenly was that Marlene, who probably was presented: "Ellen Richards Life," by Lorraine Poole; play, didn't mean it, anyway, isn't necessarily "through." One good picture in which she breaks down and acts, not only with eyebrows but with vigor, could change her mind. Of course, she didn't use "through" in the sense I do.

Auxiliary Unit Has Yule Party

Members Plan to Sing
Christmas Carols at Homes of Shut-ins

Black Creek—The American Legion auxiliary held its annual Christmas party Monday evening. Mrs. R. H. Droege was chairman. Gifts were exchanged. Christmas carols were sung, a game was played and Mrs. F. J. Weisenberger gave a reading, "Disillusioned." A pot luck supper followed.

Members will meet at the home of the president, Mrs. I. A. Grunwaldt, Dec. 20, at 7 o'clock to sing Christmas carols at the homes of the shut-ins in the village. Twenty-four were present.

The Methodist Sunday school will sponsor a Christmas program and party at the Legion hall, Dec. 23, to which friends of the church are invited.

Miss Bernice White entertained the Teachers' Bridge club of Shiocton Sunday evening at a Christmas party. Gifts were exchanged and bridge was played. Mrs. Charles Masterson was high and also took the carrying prize and Miss Marian Heckle held low score. Miss Edna Greenwaldt of Seymour was presented with a guest prize.

Mr. and Mrs. William Genske visited their son, Louis, at a hospital at Madison Monday. He has been there for several weeks and submitted to an operation Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Bishop spent the week at the A. E. Rohloff home in Milwaukee.

30 Girl Scouts to Be Guests at Yule Party at Kimberly

Kimberly — About eighty Girl Scouts are expected to be guests at the annual Christmas party at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening at the clubhouse. A short program will be featured and each troop will take part. A Christmas tree will be lighted and gifts will be exchanged.

Group No. 2 of the Ladies Aid society of the Presbyterian church held its Christmas party at the home of the Rev. L. C. Smith Monday evening. Gifts were exchanged after which refreshments were served. After the entertainment the regular routine of business was held. Mrs. Nina Hockenbrock is leader of the group.

At a meeting of the American Legion auxiliary Monday evening at the clubhouse it was voted to donate $10 to the Christmas party at the clubhouse next Tuesday and $5 to the Veterans Home at Milwaukee.

Besides the auxiliary, the William Verhagen post, village board and Booster club are also helping to sponsor the annual event. Last year over 1,100 bags of candy were given out at the party. The auxiliary will meet with the legion Monday evening to help make preparations for the Christmas party.

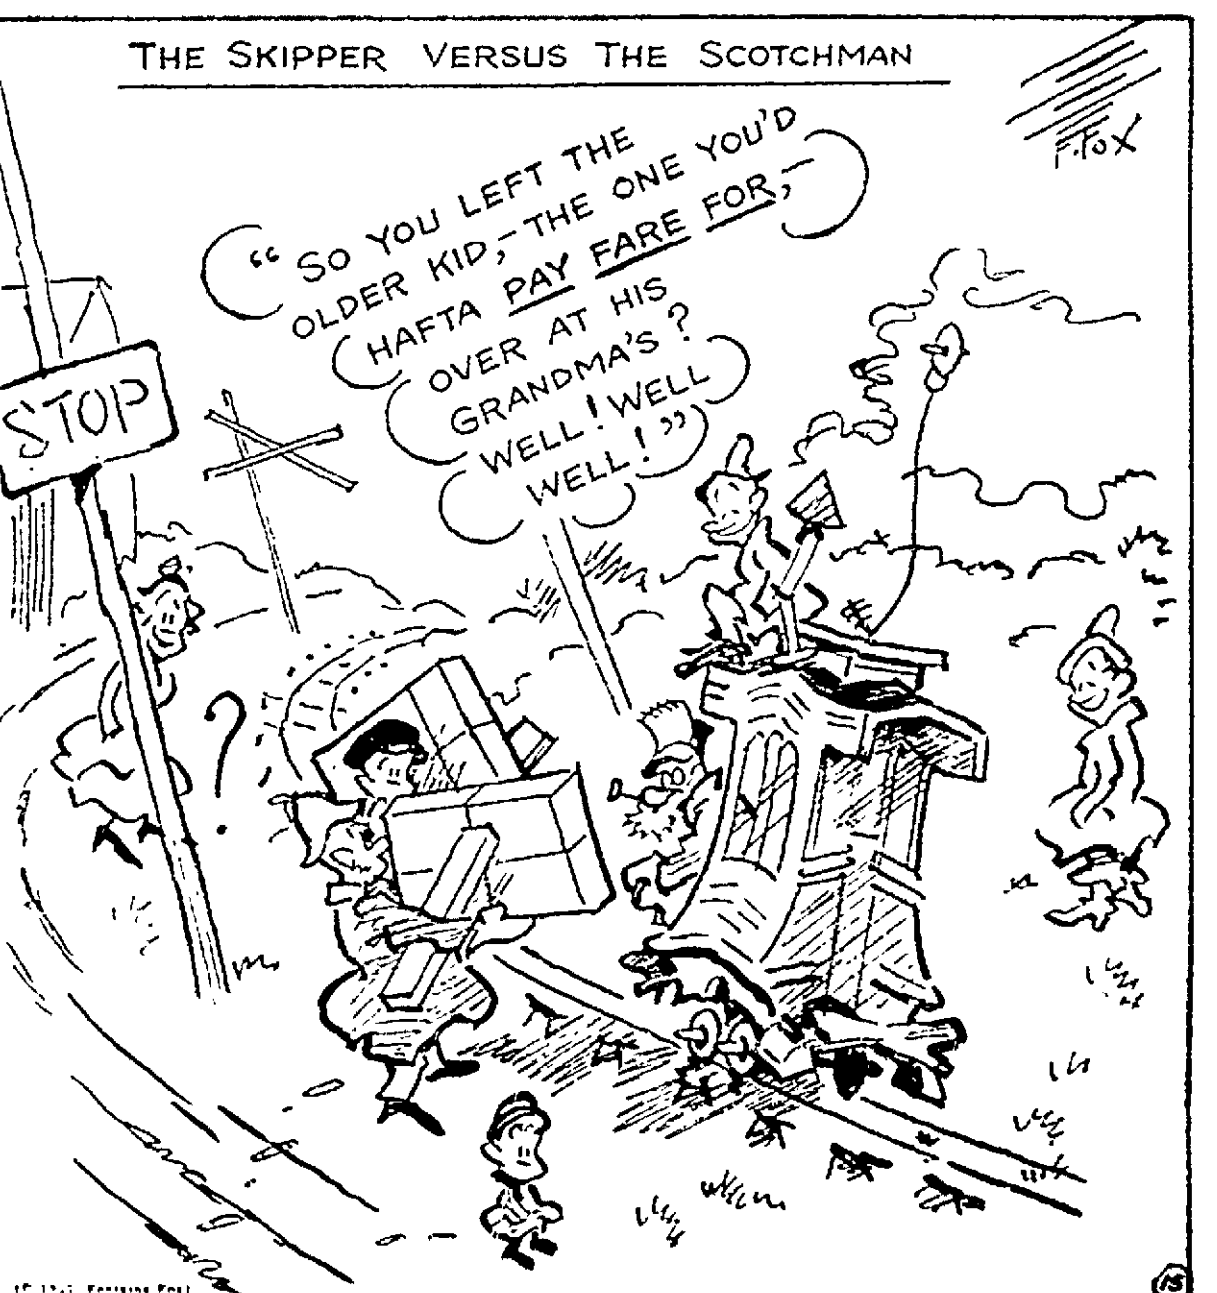

After the business session Monday evening, cards were played and prizes won by Mrs. Frank Oudenhoven, first, and Mrs. Ed Krueger, low, at schafkopf; Mrs. George McElroy, first, and Mrs. John Limbert, low, at bridge; Mrs. Paul Locks Schmidt, first, and Mrs. Henry Vanden Boogaard, low, at rummy.

A.L. McMahon New Farm Agent for Calumet County

Will Take Office Jan. 1:
No Successor as Teacher Yet Named

Chilton—A. L. McMahon, for the last eight years instructor of agriculture in the local high school, has received the appointment of Calumet county agricultural agent. At the November meeting of the county board, it was decided, because of a demand from many farmers in this county, to appoint a county agent, who is to assume the office on Jan. 1. There were many applications. No successor to Mr. McMahon as teacher of agriculture has been appointed.

The Tuesday club was entertained by Mrs. R. C. McGrath Tuesday afternoon. High scores in bridge being made by Mrs. George Berger and Mrs. G. M. Morrissey. The club will meet next with Mrs. J. E. Reinbold.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Arps were at New Holstein Sunday, where they were entertained at a family dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Arps, in honor of the forty-ninth wedding anniversary of the former's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Arps.

Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Morrissey were at Fond du Lac Saturday to visit Mrs. Earl Meser at St. Agnes hospital, where she is recovering from a fracture of the hip, suffered two weeks ago.

Mrs. Jacob Dohr, who submitted to a major operation at St. Agnes hospital a week ago, was reported to be critically ill Sunday, but is somewhat improved at this writing. Miss Irma Oelke of Dale visited friends in this city Sunday. Mrs. Oelke taught in the local schools for nine years, and is now finishing her last year in the Oshkosh State Teachers college.

Printing Classes To be Transferred

Appleton Students May Study at Menasha Vocational School

Two of the three printing classes which have been held at the Appleton Vocational school the last semester will be transferred to the Menasha Vocational school beginning the first week in January. Carl Bertram, trades and industry director of the Appleton unit, said yesterday.

John Geiger will teach the two Menasha classes and Appleton students who wish may attend. One class will be offered here for the second semester.

A class in theory of mechanics which met here the first semester will be transferred to the Neenah school beginning in January. Bertram said. Persons from this city interested in attending the Neenah course may do so.

Registrations for two welding classes, beginning and advanced, which will meet next semester in the building and trades room of the old building instead of in the new wing are now being taken. Persons also may enroll for two mathematics classes which will be continued for another 10 weeks, starting in January.

Little Chute Legion Post Hears Reports

Little Chute—Thirty members were present at regular meeting of the members of the Jacob Coppus post of the American Legion at the legion hall Monday evening. Reports were read by Edward Lutz, Appleton, county service officer, and Raymond Reider, commander of the local post. The latter was recently elected county commander at a meeting in Seymour. His report revealed that the local post has gone over the top in the recent membership drive and was awarded a silk banner, to be used on the legion colors, by the state commander of Milwaukee. It was also recorded at this meeting that the legion members are in favor of an athletic association for the village. After the business meeting cards were played and a lunch was served.

William Bies of Swift Current, Saskatchewan, Canada, is spending several months here with relatives. Peter J. Gloudemane has returned home from Milwaukee, where he spent several days on business.

rail, near the entrance to Scarborough wood!"

"It would have been too bad," murmured Richard, surveying his glass, "if he had had a bit of bad luck, right at the last!"

"Bad luck... nonsense!" cut in Carl, in his hearty way taking the sting from his words. "He approached the bar with his horse extended, and not a leg under him to jump with!"

David said: "I'd probably agree with you. If I knew what you were talking about, or... but I still say, 'I got over, didn't I?'"

There was more laughter and ribbing of Carl, this time, and presently Hester's cool voice broke in. "An hour 'til dinner, people..."

And the group began to break up. Tony asked a question.

Tony Leeds came over to Nina. "Stay down for a few minutes, will you, Nina? You always used to be able to dress like the wind. I haven't seen you for a year—do you realize that? We've time for a chat."

"All right... David, lamb, take the first bath, and then draw mine, will you? Tony and I want to go over old times a bit."

Tony Leeds was a man about Richard's age. He was rather well known as a sportsman, on both sides of the Atlantic; and he had been a good friend of the Staffords for years.

He was shorter than medium height, and of a bronze, rugged ugliness, that somehow made him immensely attractive. He had flirted, quite innocently, with Honey and Nina, by turns, and now Nina hoped that something might come of his friendship with Cordelia Thorpe... though she was rather doubtful.

It was funny about lovely Cordelia... she never, never fell for anyone. It was as though she had once loved very desperately, and lost... But Nina knew for certain that this was not so.

When the others had left, and they were settled comfortably by the fire, Tony said: "You and Honey both married!... I have a lot to get caught up with. And, by the way, your young David is as nice a chap as I've met up with in many a day!"

"You bet he is Tony."

"And guts... God! That fellow's got guts, Nina."

"Hasn't he? I was inordinately proud today!" She took a deep breath. "And Richard, Tony... Honey's frightfully happy with him... You'd met before, hadn't you?"

"Yes. All over Europe. Tell me, had either of you... had Honey known him long, before she...?" Nina laughed.

"Long! My dear, she met him out in Chicago, and was married to him in three weeks!"

Tony lit a cigarette with his steady hands, that were the color of an Indian's.

"What do you mean? 'Hm-m-m'?" Nina's heart was beating a little faster.

"Three weeks. Just like that, eh?" Tony seemed to deliberate for a minute, then he said: "Damned attractive fellow..." and started to chat about other things.

The Prize Sponger

After a bit, Nina went upstairs to dress; but she discovered she'd left her powder in the pocket of her polo coat, and went downstairs again, to get it.

Tony's voice sounded from the library.

"Personally, Carl, I like him... but he's got the reputation of being the prize sponger of all time. He has a positive talent for procuring invitations, and then drawing them out to unheard of lengths."

Only he has such a damn nice personality that his victims don't realize he's playing them for a sucker."

Nina couldn't help hearing, as she walked to the hall closet.

"... For example, he and I went on a weekend visit to the young Earl of Warwick's shooting-box, in October, one year... At Easter, on the Riviera, I ran into him again—still with the Earl, just a continuation of the weekend!"

Nina looked through the coats, and found her own.

She knew that they were speaking of Richard; and she thought: "How absurd! Why I don't care..."
